Green Thumb Romulus farmer favors fertilizer

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Thousands of gardeners from Romulus and beyond will seek advice from this a local farmer this spring. His name is Bruno Joblinski and for 50 years he has sold feed and fertilizer from his farm store on Eureka Road east of Middlebelt Road. His advice is given willingly and for free.

Bruno admits that much of what he knows was learned at his father's knee but adds that the feed and fertilizer business was his idea.

On a beautiful, sunny albeit chilly day, from his business behind his house, he contemplated the busier days ahead.

"Before my wife died, we serviced over 200 customers a day. We sold a quarter of a million dollars in a year and had $75,000 worth of stock," he stated.

With true affection, he recalled his wife of 42 years, Anne, who died one year ago last March.

"We got married on her 28th birthday. We rode a horse and buggy all the way out here and she cried. She wasn't a farmer and our farm was a long way from anywhere.

"But she caught on and was the best partner I could have ever asked for," Joblinski said.

Together they raised their son, Thomas, who uses the barn buildings for his trailer business.

"I'm 75 years old and must be the only person who sleeps in the room where he was born. My great-grandfather built this house 144 years ago on tree stumps. Since then we've rebuilt the foundation and remodeled the house.

"My father met my mother when she worked at a match factory in Detroit. Two weeks later they were married. They raised five children here. Four still live in Romulus and one lives in Monroe," he recalled.

Joblinski remembers many things about life around Romulus. "I remember when Eureka Road was paved in 1916. There were only 12 farms from here east to Fort Street. It was nothing to walk to New Boston, Romulus or Wyandotte."

"I witnessed the first airplane land at the airport in 1926. It carried only one passenger," he noted.

Joblinski can tell you that his great-grandfather paid $700 for 40 acres in 1842, that the old barn which burned in 1894 was rebuilt for $1,500 and when he was young potatoes sold for 25 cents per 100 pounds.

But Bruno Joblinski excels at diagnosing soils and bugs and naming their remedy. He's like the old country doctor who dispenses seasoned advice for his neighbors' benefit.

Spring is here and as the seeds of fruits, flowers and vegetables are germinated so are the seeds of wisdom dispersed by our local gardening guru.

"It's time to work up that soil," he enthusiastically states. "Peas, beets, onions, carrots, potatoes or early cabbage could have been planted. These seeds take longer to germinate. After the frost, beans, corn, cucumbers, tomatoes and peppers can be planted. If there is a frost warning, cover them. When you plant too early, insects come to the surface of the wet soils and lunch on your plants.

"Use a low nitrogen and high phosphate and high potassium fertilizer, 6-24-24, on these vegetables. Everybody likes it.

"You have to teach kids how to work and the value of money. The world does not owe you a living. You've got to go out and seek it."

What is Joblinski's philosophy of life? "You have to teach kids how to work and the value of money. The world does not owe you a living. You've got to go out and seek it. I've never worked anywhere else. Here I do everything myself often working 16-20 hours a day," he said.

Most of the original 80 acres of the farm have been sold. Ten acres remain on which sit his house, business, farm buildings and a small orchard.

"One thing about farming, I made more money planting houses than I ever did farming. But I love this work and I love this farm. I was hatched here and I'll be dispatched here."

Faust to seek 6th re-election

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

In a surprise move, state Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) announced this week that he would seek another four-year term for the Senate this November.

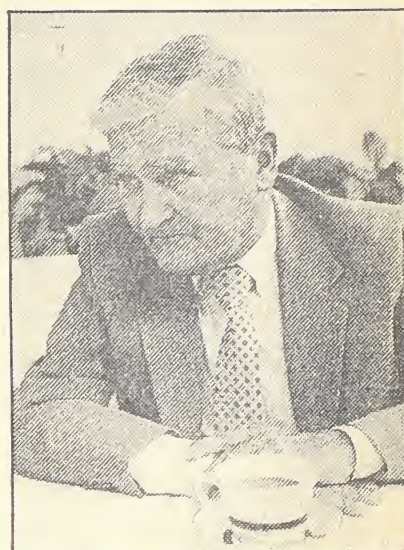

Faust made the announcement at an informal press conference Monday saying that "this decision does not come with a great deal of enthusiasm."

"I don't have any single purpose or single goal on my return. I don't know what kind of opposition I'll face but I'm sure some will emerge. Let's try to bring home the bacon one more time for the 12th District."

The five-term state senator who was first elected to the post in 1966 has campaigned unopposed for the seat in three of the five elections. He also served as Senate Majority Leader until the Republicans took over the majority in 1982. Although confident that he will face opposition in both the primary and general elections, Faust was certain that his past record could serve as his focus in the campaign.

The announcement came as a surprise for many local politicians and residents who had expected the 57-year-old Westland resident who is confined to a wheelchair to step down from the seat. However, when queried as to whether his term would be one to sit back and enjoy the improved economic conditions of the state and country which he helped create, Faust smiled and agreed.

Although stressing a low-key

campaign, the state senator said he will attempt to address several local issues next term. Included in these plans were goals to improve Merriman Road and the Metro Airport area in Romulus with new business growth and provide legislative aid to city officials in Wayne with their problem Woodland Meadows landfill.

In addition, Faust said he supports reform to the state income tax system for education as well as reform to the school system itself. In one statement, the senator said he would like to see only 89 school districts — one per county — in the state someday, although he was sure that such a reform would not happen within his lifetime.

The senator represents residents in the Michigan 12th District which includes the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Belleville and Flat Rock and Van Buren, Huron and Sumpster townships.

Youth crime programs offers alternatives

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Young lawbreakers now have the opportunity to avoid the juvenile court system through the newly instituted Romulus Youth Assistance Program.

A diversionary program was designed for delinquent and predelinquent youth according to Margaret Leduc the program supervisor which began accepting referrals yesterday.

"This is an alternative solution," she emphasized. "It is designed to prevent the development of more serious problems later in life through early intervention," she stated.

"Referrals will come from schools, courts, police, churches, parents and voluntary admissions. These young kids may have been truant, shoplifters or vandals. They are usually first offenders and not hard-core criminals. Basically, their behavior is inappropriate," stated Leduc.

"The program is not only limited to formal referrals, but any parent or youth can call for help. Their age can range from 7 to 16," she added.

"Garden City, Livonia and Redford also have the program. The Romulus program closely patterns that of Livonia which was instituted three years ago. Oakland County also offers the service and Wayne County is about to start the program," Leduc affirmed.

The program has several components including one-to-one counselors, classes for parents and youth, work service programs and referrals to professionals.

Both parent and child must agree to be in the program. "It is suggested that the parents take a 10-week parenting class where they learn skills to understand. The youth must take an eight week 'value clarification and evaluation class,' she relates.

The youths meet with their counselor once a week for six months. In a follow-up, they will meet once every six months for two years. Leduc said the program has been in the preparation stage for the past year and opened for business yesterday.

The program has been funded by money from a block grant, a Hudson Webber Grant and by the City of Romulus. Three people including Leduc will administrate the program. At the present time, there are 20 trained volunteers.

"Once the parent and youth have agreed to be in the program, a counselor will be matched with the youth.

"The volunteers are just concerned citizens who have a basic interest in kids. They have 12 hours of training and will donate 2-4 hours per week with a youth. Counselors will receive ongoing special training sessions monthly. The training will include how to talk with youth about problem solving and behavior goals," Leduc explained.

"The program is community based and mostly city funded. We have an advisory board of local people from the police, school, church and Help Center.

"Mayor McAnally and Inspector John Lewis actively sought the program for Romulus," credited Leduc.

"Although there is no real youth problem in Romulus, we want to help the kids who may need a little extra guidance or just someone to talk with."

Leduc has a Masters Degree in Social Work and Community Organization from the University of Michigan.

The Youth Assistance Office is located in the Romulus Fire Station Number Four on Eureka Road east of Middlebelt.

Murphy is our runner-up

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

She raised five children alone and this year she has been named mother-of-the-year runner-up. Yet, it would be hard to imagine anyone as diligent and loving as Janette Murphy of Romulus.

"She always worked hard," said her oldest daughter Branda Raney. "Anything she could do for you she would. She goes out of her way and would rather do for others than herself."

Romulus can be proud.

"She goes out of her way and would rather do for others than herself."

Janette was born and raised in Romulus in a house on Grant Street. When she married, she moved to Wabask Street and has lived there since.

"Our father left us when we were small," recalled Brenda. "But mom never complained about anything. She said it was one of those things. She takes one day at a time."

"She has always worked two and even three jobs," said Brenda. "Even now she works at General Nutrition full-time and J.J. Security part-time."

gardening but has little time for either.

Her oldest son Larry would be 36. He was killed in Vietnam. Her other children are Brenda, 34, Dennis, 27, Mary, 23 and Bob, 22.

She is most proud of her five grandsons.

"She always smiles. People always ask why she is smiling. She says that if she smiles, she may brighten someone else's day."

Teens attend expo

Several local high schools will be sending student representatives to the Little Caesars-sponsored Michigan Women Health Expo Teen Day May 7 at Cobo Hall.

Two-thousand teens from the tri-county area have been selected by their high school counselors to attend the day.

The teens will hear presentations by noted enterprenuer, Marilyn French Hubbard, titled "Coping With Your Feelings" and "Do You Know Anyone Who Has A Habit?"

Outward appearance will be the focus of attention during the afternoon when the young women will learn to put their "best face forward" at a make-up demonstration by Estee Lauder and a summer fashions show from J.C. Penny.

The schedule also includes presentations from psychologists, counselors and social workers on the problems of teenage drug abuse, alcohol use and suicide.

Local high school scheduled to attend will Belleville High School, Inkster High School, Romulus High School, Wayne Memorial High School, Cherry Hill High School and John Glenn High School.

Limousines lure Romulus riders

Four limousine services operate in Romulus. Before last year there were none.

"We've got more business than we can handle," said James Mack Jr., president of Marqui Limousine, before the city council last week.

"This is the fourth request for service in the last two months," said Councilman Noah Bergeron during the council meeting which saw approval of the license.

Not all four were approved, according to City Clerk Linda Choate. "One person just didn't show up," Choate said.

Mack explains the phenomena this way, "Competitive pricing and an easing of money in the economy have created a real boom in this business."

Ann Purdy owner of Premier Limousine based in Taylor said, "Everyday people are now using limos."

"At any particular time 20 limousines can be found lined up in front of the airport. But only four companies have a license to operate in Romulus," said Choate.

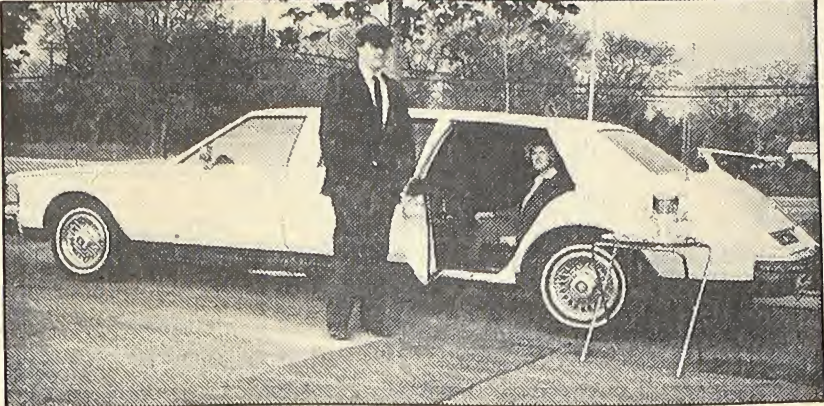

"We really have no way of distinguishing the privately-owned vehicles from the commercial ones. They are all required by law to be licensed but maybe they are unaware of that," she added.

Long, sleek, luxurious limousines carry passengers from all walks of life. "We have our corporate accounts but many of our runs are for proms, weddings and dinners. This is a very busy time of year for us," explained Purdy.

"We get many calls from parents requesting service for their children. They are concerned about drinking and their child's safety. We do not allow minors to drink in our vehicle," said Purdy who has been operating since January of 1985. She, like many limousine services, belongs to the Michigan Limousine Operators Association.

The Purdy stretch limousine offers a moon roof, television, radio, VCR, air conditioning and a bar and can accommodate up to six people. Their next vehicle on order will hold eight passengers.

"Most of the owners and operators are just like you and me. They're people with credit who are able to get financing. Often they are just getting into business," noted Choate.

Aside from Marqui and Premier, Holland Limousine and Econ Limousine are also licensed in Romulus. None of the companies are headquartered here.

"Limousines offer a unique and exceptional service. They're service oriented and operate with the highest regard for the passenger," stated Mack.

A new limousine costs approximately $45,000.

romulus news in brief

An armed robbery occurred at the Total Gas Station at the corner of Wayne and Goddard roads early Sunday morning.

At about 4:15 a.m. Sunday two black males about 15-17 years old approached the cashier's window where a lone female attendant was working at the station.

They produced a handgun, demanded the money and fled on foot according of local police officials.

A small amount of cash was taken. There were no injuries. Police have suspects in the incident but have made no arrests.

A robbery in progress was thwarted by local police at Kelsey Hayes.

Two men were arrested when officers responded to a call for help from Kelsey Hayes Security officers.

The suspects had cut a hole in the fence of the plant at Huron River Drive and Northline Road.

Fourteen wheels were recovered according to local police. Eight were cast aluminum and six were chrome. Twelve more were scattered in the suspect's car.

Through the use of tracking dogs, police located the suspects at a residence nearby.

The two men, 19 and 21 years old, were arrested and the property recovered. Police are awaiting court action.

A local woman critically wounded her estranged husband in a conflict last week.

Local police were summoned to the Wellsley Apartments on Smith Road where a marital dispute was in progress.

"This had been an ongoing thing for about a year," said local police. "The couple have one child and have been separated for about one year."

The husband had allegedly assaulted the wife the night before at her parents' house in Westland. The next day he returned to his former residence where she now lives. A shouting match took place and he "forced open the door."

At that time the woman fired a single shot to the chest of her husband. He is listed in critical condition at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

The prosecutor has been unable to interview the husband and therefore no ruling or charges have been filed.

The Bloodmobile will be in the basement of St. Aloysius Catholic Church Monday May 12. It will be a community wide blood drive with several churches involved.

"For Mother's Day give her the gift of life. Donate a pint of blood in her name," said local organizer Florence Klein.

She wants to add that Gil White has donated more blood than anybody. To date, he has given 25 gallons. "We're very proud of him," she said.

There is a correction in last week's article about the towing services. We quoted Romulus Police Chief Wilmoth as saying, "We are not satisfied with the past service."

What we meant to say was that he is not dissatisfied with the service.

Local businesses urge prom night safety

Two local businesses are going to the Romulus prom together this Friday night. Rush's Flowers and Central Distributors have joined forces with local schools to promote no drinking while driving.

Rush's Flowers on Henry Ruff Road will enclose a business card donated by Central Distributors with every corsage sold. The card reads, "Because we care, we urge you to enjoy the occasion safely and responsibly. Please don't drink and drive."

Ed Rush, owner said, "Two hundred corsages have been ordered for this weekend alone. If you can save one kid's life, it's worth it. "We don't want to tell the kids what to do, just be responsible."

"Here's a company that sells beer and liquor but wants kids to be sensible. We want to help keep a happy occasion from turning tragic," he continued.

"Parents, teachers and clergy are telling kids not to drink. If people in the alcohol industry tell them not to abuse alcohol, we might create a different perception," said Nancy Colina, special projects director at Central Distributing on Gorsuch Road.

"Eight thousand cards have been distributed in this area. The joint effort has been well received. Responses have been tremendous. This is really a local effort."

"We decided to do this in conjunction with the florist because it would be a last reminder before kids go off to the prom. Prom night is a fun night. We want to keep it that way," she emphasized.

This joint business effort is in addition to the efforts of local schools.

Students and officials have joined together in a program called "Project Graduation."

"The program is in its third year," said Phyllis Cebula who together with Jan Haynes, Mike Teasdale, Bob Beauchamp, Phyllis Adkins, Mark Anderson and Don Kobane are teachers coordinating the project at Romulus High School.

"We work with a group of about 50 students who are designated leaders from all areas of the school. A number of activ-

dan's dogs

by dan a. morris

One of the nicest birthday parties I attended was for Alexis Carrington. Sorry, I don't mean "the" Alexis, but another just as stunning.

This one is Alexis Carrington, the Bouvier. Champagne, coffee, people cake and biscuits were served. The party celebrated her second birthday and the owner's explanation for staging this birthday celebration was because, "She gives me plenty of comfort and affection and has seen me through good as well as bad times. She deserves it."

Many of my students bring party favors for their classmates when a birthday dog is celebrating. We never ask the age of any female birthday dog because that simply is not done. We're just happy to be included in the festivities and the dogs seem to enjoy the break from obedience into the fun of the party.

DOG PEOPLE - those of us who believe life without a dog around becomes less meaningful - are a unique group. Our conversations with one another revolve around our dog(s), how they behave, their likes and dislikes. "Outsiders" don't always fit in. We are a close knit group just as are groups of musicians, doctors and lawyers.

As a former pet store owner, I can verify that dog owners are generous and thoughtful. Many times I've heard one lady complain to another that the $50 sweater she almost bought for herself was far too extravagant a purchase yet seconds later will lay $50 worth of food and toys on the counter for her dog and think nothing of it.

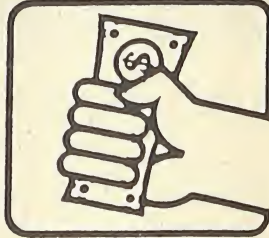

We worry and fret about our dogs the way a musician does over his instrument. Our dogs are family members and are above criticism.

Yes, we're a special group of people and are proud of it. Ask any dog owner!

A taste of India

Administrators and staff at the Wayne County Intermediate School District are enjoying a taste of India as the schools celebrate "India Month." A wide range of activities are planned for the event including slide presentation, lectures and samplings of Indian food. The wood carvings of soldiers (left) are just a few of the many items on display in the second-floor Bilingual Department at the school district offices on Van Born Road in Wayne.

CHAPTER III ARTICLE 2

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF SIDEWALKS: TO CONSTRUCT OR ORDER THE CONSTRUCTION OF SIDEWALKS: TO PROVIDE AN APPEALS PROCESS: TO PROVIDE FOR THE PAYMENT THEREOF: TO PROVIDE A PENALTY FOR VIOLATION

SHORT TITLE: SIDEWALK ORDINANCE
THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:
SECTION 1. DEFINITIONS.

- 1.00 For the purpose of this Ordinance, the following terms, phrases, words and their derivations shall have the meaning given herein. When not inconsistent with the context, words used in the present tense include the future; words in the plural include the singular number, and words in the singular number include the plural number. The word "shall" is always mandatory and not merely permissive.
- 1.01 "COUNCIL" is the City Council of the City of Romulus, Michigan
- 1.02 "SIDEWALK" is a concrete pedestrian foot path meeting the specifications as herein contained.
- 1.03 "INSPECTOR" is the City of Romulus Building Inspector.
- 1.04 "ENGINEER" is the City of Romulus Engineer.
- 1.05 "EXPANSION JOINT" -- a complete separation in the concrete sidewalk filled with a bituminous premolded joint filler.
- 1.06 "CONTRACTION JOINT" -- a place of weakness caused by scribing the concrete sidewalk to a sufficient depth to control the location of cracking.

SECTION 2. SPECIFICATIONS AND PERMITS.

- 2.00 No person shall construct, rebuild or repair any sidewalk except in accordance with the line, grade, slope and specifications approved by the Engineer, nor without first obtaining a written permit from the Inspector, except that sidewalk repairs of less than fifty (50) square feet may be made without a permit. The said written permit shall be prominently displayed on the construction site. The fee for such permit shall be established by the Building Department.
- 2.01 The location and grade of sidewalks shall be shown on site development and grading plans for the principal structure under consideration for a Building Permit, and said location and grade of the Sidewalk shall be approved upon review by the City of Romulus prior to issuance of the Building Permit for the principal building.
- 2.02 Wherever possible, the Building Department shall direct that the construction of the sidewalk be on a line parallel with the edge of the road right-of-way, and that it be contained within said right-of-way and that its inside edge be one (1) foot from the edge of the road right-of-way.

SECTION 3. LINE AND GRADE STAKES.

- 3.00 Line and grade stakes as may be necessary for proper control of the work shall be approved by the Building Department, but this does not relieve the owner of the responsibility for making careful and accurate measurements in constructing the work to the approval of the City.

SECTION 4. SIDEWALK SPECIFICATIONS.

- 4.00 Sidewalks shall be constructed of four (4) inch thick, 2,500 pound per square inch, portland cement concrete poured on a minimum foundation of four (4) inches of compacted sand. Sidewalks shall be a minimum of five (5) feet wide. In each instance, sidewalks will be installed with a slope towards the street side, constructed to the grades approved by the City, with those portions crossed by driveways a minimum of six (6) inches in thickness. Contraction joints must be spaced every five (5) feet and expansion joints must be spaced every forty (40) feet. One (1) inch thick, six (6) inch wide expansion joints must be constructed wherever the sidewalk touches a street curb. The City Council, upon the recommendation of the Engineer, may upgrade or add specifications as it deems necessary to properly construct a sidewalk.

SECTION 5. SIDEWALK INSPECTION

- 5.00 The owner of each lot will be responsible to see that the Inspector is notified at least twenty-four (24) hours in advance of the pouring of any sidewalk. The work shall not proceed until the Inspector shall have inspected the rails and sub-grade and passed the work as suitable and in conformance with the grade and specifications. The sidewalk shall also be subject to a final inspection after all work has been completed.

SECTION 6. PERMIT REVOCATION.

- 6.00 The Inspector may revoke any permit issued under the terms of this Ordinance for incompetency or failure to comply with the terms of this Chapter, or the rules and regulations, plans and specifications established by the Inspector for the construction, reconstruction or repair of any sidewalk. It shall be unlawful for any person to construct, rebuild or repair any sidewalk on a site where the sidewalk permit has been revoked until a new permit has been secured.

SECTION 7. ORDERING CONSTRUCTION.

- 7.00 The City herewith mandates that all developments which require site plan approval shall provide sidewalks as part of their site improvements.
- 7.01 The Council may, by resolution, require the owners of lots and premises to construct or repair sidewalks in the public streets adjacent to and abutting upon such lots and premises, provided, however, enforcement of such resolution would be deferred until such time as the Council shall hold a public meeting relative to the ordering of the sidewalk construction and shall notify all property owners involved of the time and place of the hearing. Sidewalks constructed pursuant to the provisions of this Ordinance on the right-of-way of state highways or county roads must have the approval of the state or county highway authority having jurisdiction over the highway or road.
- 7.02 The ordering construction as herein provided shall give the property owner not less than thirty (30) days within which to comply with the resolution of the Council pertaining to said sidewalk construction.

SECTION 8. CONSTRUCTION BY CITY

- 8.00 If the owner of any lot or premises shall fail to build any particular sidewalk as described in said notice, and within the time and manner required thereby, the Inspector is hereby authorized and required, immediately after the expiration of the time limited for the construction or rebuilding by owner, to cause such sidewalk to be constructed and the expense thereof, plus ten percent (10%), shall be charged to such premises and the owner thereof, and collected at the rate of twenty percent (20%) per year over a period of five (5) years, if the property owner should elect. Such installation payments however, shall be subjected to an interest charge on any unpaid balances at the rate of nine percent (9%) per annum.

SECTION 9. SIDEWALK MAINTENANCE.

- 9.00 All sidewalks within the City shall be kept and maintained in good repair by the owner of the land adjacent to and abutting upon the same; and if any owner shall neglect to keep and maintain the sidewalk along the front, rear or side of the land owned by him in good repair and safe for the use of the public, the said owner shall be liable to the City for any damages recovered against the City sustained by any person by reason of said sidewalk being unsafe and out of repair.

SECTION 10. SIDEWALK APPEALS.

- 10.00 Powers.
The Zoning Board of Appeals.
A. Variances. Grant variances to or vary the specifications of this chapter.
B. Waivers. Waive the requirements thereof, when it is satisfied by a two-thirds (2/3) vote thereof, after the presentation of competent evidence that there is the existence of a unique circumstance.

- 10.01 Standards.
In determining the existence of any one or more of the previous conditions, the Zoning Board of Appeals shall consider:
A. Underground Facilities. The presence or absence of underground sewer, water or drainage facilities beneath the area where the sidewalk would be installed.
B. Unusual Physical Characteristics. Unusual physical characteristics resulting in engineering difficulty of either design or installation.
- 10.02 Delays in Construction.

The Director of the Building Department may determine, by applying the standards set forth in Section 10.01 thereof, that a sidewalk cannot be constructed in front of a proposed structure at the time of the principal construction.

In such a case, the Director of the Building Department may order that a certain sum of cash money be deposited in an escrow account by the applicant to guarantee the construction. The amount of the deposit shall be determined by the Romulus Building Department, which shall be equivalent to the estimate of construction cost to be incurred, and shall be refunded to the applicant, his successor or designee, upon the completion of the construction conforming to the specifications and standards of this Chapter.

The applicant, his successor or designee shall have one (1) year from the time of the deposit to commence construction of the sidewalk. If no sidewalk construction is commenced within that time, said sum shall be forfeited to the City, which shall use it for construction of sidewalks.

SECTION 11. PENALTY FOR VIOLATION.

- 11.00 In the event any person shall violate any of the provisions of this Ordinance, he shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500.00), or by imprisonment for a term not to exceed ninety (90) days, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

SECTION 12. REPEALER.

- 12.00 All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this ordinance full force and effect.

SECTION 13. EFFECTIVE DATE

- 13.00 This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon publication in the Romulus Roman, a newspaper of general circulation in the City of Romulus.

I, Linda R. Choate, Clerk for the City of Romulus do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an ordinance duly adopted by the Romulus City Council at its regular meeting held on the 7th day of April, 1986.

Linda R. Choate, Clerk
City of Romulus

ATTEST: Beverly McAnally, Mayor

Within forty-five (45) days after publication of any ordinance duly adopted by the Council, a petition may be presented to the Council protesting against such ordinance continuing in effect. Said petition shall contain the text of such ordinance and shall be signed by not less than six (6%) percent of the registered electors registered at the last preceding election at which a Mayor of the City was elected. Said ordinance shall thereupon and thereby be suspended from operation and the Council shall immediately reconsider such ordinance.

ACCEPTING NOMINATIONS for the United States Service Academies is Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor). Ford announced Nov. 1, 1986, as his deadline for the applications. Forms are available at his Wayne office at 3716 Newberry, Wayne. The nominations are available for the class entering in June, 1987 to the military, naval, Air Force and Merchant Marine academies. Applicants must be at least 17 years old, but not have reached the age of 22 by July, 1987. For more information, call the Congressman's office at 722-1411.

COMING HOME WITH FISH TALES is Frank Coban of Romulus. Coban brought home a 40 pound, 61 inch Barracuda while deep-sea fishing off the coast of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. The excursion was part of a fishing program staged twice each year. Coban will receive a citation from the fishing festival in which he rode aboard the "Happy Day Today" charter boat.

ACCEPTED RECENTLY AS A FINALIST in the Miss Michigan Co-Ed Pageant to be staged May 2, 3, and 4 at the Plymouth Hilton Inn was Donna Lynn Poletti. Poletti, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Poletti, is being sponsored by Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, her parents, uncle and grandparents. Finalists from the competition will go on to the national pageant in Hawaii.

SEVERAL LOCAL RESIDENTS have been named Outstanding Young Women of America by the advisors and editors of the Outstanding Young Women of America program. On the list are: Margie Rawls and Edna Reaves, Inkster; Mary Ellen Sotola, Wayne; and Robbin Smith, Belleville. The biographies of these women will appear in a nationally published book later this year.

"MOSTLY MOZART," a concert performed by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, was presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 1 in the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Featured were the combined Middle School beginning orchestra, the combined intermediate orchestra, the high school orchestra and several soloists.

NAMED TO THE DEAN'S LIST at the Detroit College of Business in Dearborn were Joyce Beattie and David Morton of Wayne. To qualify for the list, students must maintain a 3.5 or higher grade point average at the end of a quarter.

WESTLAND RESIDENT Anne Pederson is a new member of the Taylor University Jazz Ensemble and will perform numerous concerts throughout the year. The school is a non-denominational, Christian liberal arts college in Upland, Ind.

ITEMS OF INTEREST for "In and About Town" are welcomed. News submitted should be of community activities or information on achievements performed by area citizens. Good quality black-and-white, glossy photos are also accepted. Send articles to: Associated Newspapers, In and About Town, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, MI 48184.

Local hospital celebrates National Hospital Week

"Hospitals make healthy neighbors" is the message of the National Hospital Week celebration this year May 11 through 17.

The week is sponsored each year by the American Hospital Association to recognize the contributions made by hospitals to their communities and to help acquaint people with their local hospital.

Annapolis Hospital in Wayne will observe Hospital Week with a week-long series of special events for employees and the public.

For children, Annapolis will offer tours of the hospital, Monday through Friday, May 12 through 16. The tours are designed for groups of no more than 30 children and will be staged at 9, 10 and 11 a.m. as well as 1 and 2 p.m. Featured on the tours are visits to a mock operating room, the physical and occupational therapy departments along with the x-ray facilities.

Free blood pressure tests will also be offered Monday through Friday of Hospital Week from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the front lobby of the hospital from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the outpatient lobby.

Hospital Authority lawsuit delayed

Dismantling proposal on schedule

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

A show cause hearing in the lawsuit between the Peoples Community Hospital Authority and the Service Employees International Union Local 79 has again been rescheduled.

The case, which was originally scheduled for April 4 and then rescheduled for April 25, has been tentatively set for 2 p.m. May 23 in Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Helen White's Courtroom.

The suit was filed by SEIU-Local 79 in an attempt to stop the PCHA from a proposed move to dismantle the Authority, a move that may cost the union and the more than 1,500 non-professional employees it represents jobs, according to a union spokesman.

Paul Policicchio, second vice president of the local union, said earlier this year that the current status of the Authority should remain intact. This, he claims, will allow the pro-community stance the hospitals have maintained for more than 40 years to continue ensuring the future of jobs for the employees.

"We don't believe the Authority should be dissolved... we are going to eliminate health care for those who cannot afford other health care."

B. Ward Smith, the attorney representing the PCHA in the case, said that although the two sides have conducted some informal discussions, he is ready to go to court to get a summary judgment (dismissal) of the case.

"I can't negotiate with them. They can quit any time they want. The court date is still on," Smith said.

Policicchio failed to return several calls to comment on the suit this week.

Meanwhile, Pat Norton, one of the 47 members on the PCHA Board of Directors, said the plan to reorganize is going along as planned with the board members meeting with state legislatures to find a plan that would allow the Authority to dismantle.

"We are working with the legislature in an attempt to structure that piece of legislation that formed the Authority. There are seven other hospitals who are looking to go from public to not-for-profit," Norton said. "They think they need some special legislation which is complicating ours."

The Authority needs a revision of Public Act 47 which created the PCHA in 1945 in order to change the governing process. In addition, board members must overcome the attorney general's office and an Ingham County Circuit Court Injunction that have barred the Authority from dismantling.

Even with the obstacles ahead, Norton feels the plan is on schedule with the five-hospital Authority to operate as a private, non-profit entity before the end of the year.

"Everything at this time is in progress and is under negotiation. I think it's an idea whose time is here," Norton said. "Those of us in favor feel several disastrous things could happen if we aren't able to do it (reorganize)."

Schools celebrate test scores, India month is proclaimed

Officials from the Wayne County Intermediate School District are taking a new look at education lately by offering a few new honorary and ethnic-al programs.

In one of the new efforts by the school district to place a greater emphasis on student achievement, the district honored students from area school districts who achieved a 100 percent accuracy score on the Michigan Education Assessment Program test last year.

A raising of the Flag of Learning and Liberty started the events of the day Friday with several school district board members, superintendents and school principals present to accept the honors for their district.

In addition, schools that made claim to 75 percent of the students reaching the 100 percent on the tests were given special recognition and a flag to commemorate the event.

Locally, the Plymouth-Canton Public Schools boasted of 16 such schools with 75 percent of the students at the 100 percent accuracy level. Wayne-Westland Community Schools had nine, Romulus schools one, Van Buren Public Schools one and the Westwood school district also had one honored school.

Also being touted at the Intermediate School District is India Month in May with a variety of special cultural events planned for students, teachers and residents.

Mina Bhavsar, bilingual research teacher for the district, is heading the month-long series of film presentations, concerts, clothing and jewelry displays and samplings of Indians food to give local citizens a taste of the Indian culture.

• Wednesday, May 21 - Religions of India, a movie in the discussion room from 3 to 5 p.m.

• Wednesday, May 28 - Slide presentation and lecture by University of Michigan professor Troutman from 3 to 5 p.m. Dinner also featured from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

• Wednesday, June 4 - Vegetarian cooking in India from 3 to 5 p.m.

For more information, contact Bhavsar at the school at 467-1387.

Red Cross is seeking volunteers

The American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, is looking for a few good kids. Youths between the ages of 14 and 17 who enjoy meeting and working with people and who want to serve the community and explore career opportunities are asked to sign up for the Youth Services program.

As a Red Cross youth volunteer, youths will work with the Easter Seal Camps assisting with outdoor games, crafts or on field trips to Boblo Island, the Belle Isle Zoo or the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Volunteers are signing up now for summer placement. For more information about becoming a youth volunteer, call the Red Cross at 494-2858.

Experience is the best teacher

Today we're going to break one of our own rules.

It has long been our policy to pretty much ignore announcements of candidacy...those news releases every politician and campaign worker seems to think belong on the front page with picture of the candidate and a headline suitable for the exclusive story of the second coming of Christ.

Usually, we accept the announcement, file it with all the others and when everyone who has a desire to serve in the political arena has announced that intent, tell our readers who is seeking election and as much about them and the issues as we can. It saves a great deal of confusion, and prevents even the appearance of any favoritism to any candidate. Favoritism comes only after a meeting of the editorial staff and the publisher when endorsements are decided - usually after long debate, too much pizza and an endless stream of questions.

Today, however, we're going to break that rule. State Senator William Faust has announced that he will seek re-election to the post in which he has served for 20 years. That is news that we cannot ignore and his candidacy does not seem to fit in with the usual press-release announcements.

William Faust is a man who has won the respect and admiration of all those who have worked and dealt with him. He is not only an excellent senator and a good politician, he is a fine human being.

Faust is a gentleman. Some would assert these days that being a politician precludes the title of gentlemen...those individuals have not met Bill Faust, nor seen him in action.

His announcement came as a surprise to many who expected that, at 57, he would retire, leaving the seat he has filled so well open to those younger or newer at the political game. He admitted this week that he had been tempted to do just that--he had faced the death of his father recently and the sale of his businesses in the north of the state, both of which had caused him to seriously consider retirement.

But as his political counterparts and friends asked him about the decision he was considering, as he puts it, "I just couldn't come up with a good reason not to run."

That doesn't mean he's any less than enthusiastic about his job, or that he approaches it with any less dedication or fervor than he did 20 years ago. What it means, in our opinion, is that here is a public servant who is truly good at his job and loves his work enough not to want to leave it.

He could walk away with grace and the gratitude of every community he serves and with accolades from both political parties, for his record of service commands a respect that crosses any party barriers. And while Faust anticipates he will face republican opposition for his seat, any candidate attempting to oust him will need a fine record indeed to convince local leaders and voters that Faust is not the best custodian of their confidence.

"Faust is a gentleman. Some would assert these days that being a politician precludes the title of gentlemen... those individuals have not met Bill Faust, nor seen him in action."

Bill Faust has spent 20 years in Lansing working to serve the people of this area. He candidly admits that he has no single purpose or cause this term...what he does have is a feeling that the state level of the senate and the state involvement in larger issues has been untangled so that he can now concentrate on helping the local communities with local problems.

Bill Faust has something to offer our local communities that no other candidate could have, no matter what his political affiliation, race, religion or creed. What Bill Faust has is 20 years of experience and that experience has obviously been a very good teacher, indeed.

Too much of a good thing

We are not against civic organizations.

We believe in altruism, in the work of city groups and we fully understand the benefit of all the good work and contribution to the welfare of cities that they provide. We aren't bad guys, okay? Okay. Keeping that in mind, understanding that we're full cognizant of the charitable and good intentions of those who sponsor them, we've hereby go on record as voting for the abolition of the infernal carnivals at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Wayne Road.

Perhaps it's the undignified, albeit controlled, controversy at Wayne City Council meetings about which group gets to sponsor the next one, perhaps it's the nearly constant arrival of the rides and trucks and trailer which seem to have become a nearly permanent fixture at the site, or perhaps it's some of the off-the-record conversations we've had with police officers regarding the consequences of the visits.

There is nothing wrong with the carnivals - but once a year would be fine. Romulus, for instance, has the same type of carnival each year at the annual Michigan Week celebration. Everyone has a good time, and once a year is fun and something new and exciting for everybody. But the Wayne situation seems to be nearly continual...although we're well aware it does only seem that way.

While the carnival ride owners certainly can't be held responsible for the conduct of those attending the attractions, nearby merchants have suffered thousands of dollars in vandalism during the term of the carnival activity. And while the civic groups and the ride owners do their level best to clean up the site, there usually is quite a mess following the departure of the activities.

We understand that the site may soon be developed, leaving no room for the carnivals at that particular spot. We would hope the members of the Wayne City Council would think long and hard before allowing the moving of such an enterprise into a park in any residential neighborhood. If such approval is given, then the frequency of these carnivals should be sharply curtailed.

They are an efficient fundraiser and the money earned undoubtedly goes for good causes - but perhaps this is a charity that is just too costly.

We would hope that other cities, too, would exercise prudence in approval of these activities and consider area merchants and local citizens when approving these requests.

Too much of a good thing can negate even the most charitable and pure of motives.

Coppertone madness

We learn about ourselves through others. Sometimes we learn that we're better than we give ourselves credit for and sometimes we are forced to recognize that we are not without fault.

After a grueling eight days in Taiwan, Susan and I arrived in Honolulu, took a cab ride to the hotel and "crashed."

We spent four days in the sun, breathing the fresh tropical air, eating extraordinary food and enjoying some first-class entertainment available at the hotel. We were much to pooped to even contemplate going too far afield.

Now for my confession about my basic humanness...and others'.

It was the last day we would have an opportunity to soak up the rays on this island paradise - and it truly is paradise. We had breakfast by the pool and kept our eyes peeled for two empty lounge chairs. Ahah! At last a pair of reddened tourist types, much like yours truly, had enough sun and vacated two chaises.

Off I skampered, removing my magnificent straw hat, with floral hatband, acquired first thing upon arrival and which I will probably never don again. Anyway, I put enough paraphernalia across two chairs to clearly stake my claim. First however, maternal training not totally forgotten, I consulted with a couple seated nearby to verify the departed couple would not be returning.

So off I skeddaddled to finish my breakfast. Within five minutes a couple appeared and spotted a vacant chair next to the two which I had so meticulously and politely staked out. Glancing around to see if anyone was watching, they proceeded to take my straw fedora and toss it over on an adjacent lounge chair.

I felt my blood begin to percolate. It was as though I was watching a robbery in progress. I was fascinated...and angry. At this point, I wasn't rushing breakfast, for a tense verbal exchange lay on the horizon.

Fifteen minutes passed and I was preparing my speech for the invading barbarians, then, as I stood and moseyed toward the chairs, something happened.

These two picked up and left. Simultaneously, a woman moved swiftly from the opposite direction and as my thieving friends left, she sat down. I was five feet away as she began waving to her brood across the pool.

This was a lose-lose situation for me. I attempted to explain to this woman what happened and why these two chairs are mine to be had. She was not in the least bit interested, in fact, she was righteously indignant as she explained that she needed these two and more because "there's five of us."

"So off I skampered, taking off my magnificent straw hat with floral hatband acquired first thing upon arrival and which I will probably never don again."

Obviously, this is like paper covers rock, rock breaks scissors or a full house beats three of a kind. She had five and we were only two and therefore, we lose.

In spite of the of the packed pool area at the height of prime sun hours, I soon found two more chairs. Steam was no doubt coming from my ears by now. What got to me more than the incident, was the afterthought that the couple I had struck up a brief conversation with earlier when first I staked out my claim in sun worshippers territory had re-

Errors corrected

To The Editor:

I wish to correct a few errors of fact in two articles (4/1 and 4/8/86) regarding the operation of the DNR's access site on Belleville Lake by concessionaire.

(1) I'm sure I did not say the Gillespies were the sole bidders to run the site. I participated in the bid review process, was well aware of Mr. Graham's bid, and would not have stated otherwise. I may have said the Gillespies were the only bidders with experience in running a similar facility, and that is true.

(2) The fee schedule for the access site has been misstated. The fees are: Vehicle (daily) $1.50 and Vehicle with Trailer (daily) $3. Annual stickers are also available, priced at $9 and $18 respectively.

(3) The concessionaire receives a major portion of fees collected, not a "small percentage". The Gillespies retain 96 percent of fees collected. As I recall, Mr. Graham's bid was that he retain 95 percent. The selection committee decided that losing the 1 percent difference (which amounted to $137 in 1985) was worthwhile to gain experienced operation of the site.

(4) Again, regarding the percentages for sharing revenues collected, I think Mr. Graham may have been misquoted in the article of 4/8. The DNR would have received 5 percent,

100 YEARS AGO TODAY
By Park E. Gregory
Just as it was written in the Enterprise
(Words in parentheses are this writers.)

May 5, 1886. Diphtheria rages in Springwells (in 1886 Springwells was a Township between the township of Ecorse and the city of Detroit.)

Spring hats and spring showers, a delightful mixture, especially if it is the first time you have worn it.

One of Ypsilanti's bucket shops has busted. Kick the other out and then the town will be fit to dwell in.

Next Friday evening will perhaps be the most auspicious event in the history of Belleville. Col. Sylvester Larned, Michigan's hero, will deliver one of his great speeches at Music Hall and will be ably supported by little Minnie Sands, our favorite singer, Jennie Sitlington and many others. A rousing reception will be accorded Col. Larned and his Detroit Friends at the depot Friday evening. Turn out and witness the ovation. The Belleville Cornet Band and the Tyler Street Martial Band will act as escorts.

Last Friday evening about 7 o'clock the strains of strange music were wafted to the ears of our citizens and a few moments later the Tyler Street Martial Band put in an appearance playing enlivening music. The effect was magical, our streets were soon filled with people and vehicles came from all directions. At 7:30 the Belleville Cornet Band paraded Main Street adding more life to the occasion, reaching the hall at 8 o'clock. A few moments past that hour President Cody assended the stage and called the Memorial Association to order. It was the largest assemblage ever gathered in the Music Hall. The program was informal; after prayer by Rev. L. C. York and singing by the choir, Sam'l Burroughs made a glowing address filling the hearts of his hearers with honest true sentiment of the "American Soldier." Bursts of applause and cheers were frequent the entire evening and everyone went home feeling satisfied with the grand work being accomplished by the Memorial Association.

Monday was a great day for strikes in nearly every large city the men were numbered by thousands that struck for the 8-hour system. Some few factories have acceded to the demands of their men but more of them have made it a lockout or have suspended business altogether. More trouble is yet to come, the Michigan Car Works turned out 2,000 men, New York shipped 75,000 employees while Chicago has 40,000 men idle because they refuse to work.

Are you going to decorate your houses May 29-30-31. It costs you only 50 cents per doz. for a good flag on a stick, these small emblems contribute much to the beauty of our place. Orders may be left at this office (the Enterprise) and they will be attended to at once.

Several parties in town had the pleasure of seeing a white sandhill crane up at the bayou (Miller's west of town) the other day.

Miss Lottie Haak keeps her department in the Union School. (Union School was probably the wooden school on Third Street that preceded the brick school which preceded the A&P building.)

specify what size the area should be or provide for any enforcement for restaurants that do not comply with the law.

The bill just passed by the legislature would require that the tables for non-smokers be clearly identified, that they be until it complied with the law. The existing law is considered inadequate to protect non-smoking restaurant customers from tobacco smoke because it does little more than require the posting of a sign. This has apparently resulted near each other, and that they be located so as not to discriminate against non-smokers.

"There has been general agreement that non-smokers at least should be allowed an area in restaurants where they can dine without smoke."

The bill would require that the Michigan Department of Public Health or local health departments chosen by the department inspect restaurants to make sure they comply with the law. Non-compliance could lead to the suspension limitation or revocation of a restaurant's license.

A local health department would have to investigate any written complaints within five days. If it found that the law was being violated, it could order the violation corrected within two days. If it is not corrected, a local health officer could order a restaurant closed in many instances of compliance with the letter, but not the intent, of the law, such as restaurants that place the non-smoking "area" or table squarely between unmarked areas.

This can be done because the existing law is not specific and there is no practical means to enforce it.

Although the debate continues in the scientific community over the seriousness of the impact, if any, that sidestream or secondhand smoke has on a person's health, there are those who feel that the rights of non-smokers should be considered, if only because they object to the smell of or irritation caused by smoke.

mained silent, trying to look the other way during the whole exchange. They could have clarified the situation, but decided to lie low.

I must have agonized for 20 minutes before I realized how utterly dumb and trivial it had all been. This guy I thought was as patient as Job had gotten all bent out of shape over a matter not worth the time of day. "But it was the principle of the thing," I told myself. Baloney, my logic answered my emotion.

The message here, I think, is threefold: first, we should be careful not to make small matter into big matters - read molehills into mountains; second, we should not allow the failures and transgressions of others to trigger us to take action or think uncivil thoughts that are equally inappropriate and can cause more mental anguish to ourselves than anyone else, and third, never get suntan lotion too close to your ears, because I think it sometimes drips into your skull and makes your brain soft.

See you next week.

not 96 percent (or 95 percent) under his proposal. I do appreciate Mr. Graham's efforts to put the record straight.

Considering the hours of operation and the length of the operating season required by the concession agreement, Mr. Graham is certainly correct when he said "I don't think anyone is going to get rich on it." If boat ramps were very profitable, there would probably be more of them on Belleville Lake, and no talk of a "monopoly."

Your newspaper finally proved to me that it is a good newspaper.

It seems all the bad things that happen in Romulus always made headline news and you finally printed something good that happened in Romulus on the front page. Of course, I am especially proud of those children whose picture for the shoot out made the front page because Jason Flaishans is my son. But I am glad it didn't appear somewhere else - hidden in small print.

I know my son worked hard and is proud of himself for what he did for Easter Seals. I am glad you feel the same way.

It's nice to see something good on the front page. Romulus does have some good things happen and it's good to hear about them.

We Are The Champions!

ANP photos by Chief Photographer Lothar E. Konietzko

It's a celebration

When Romulus residents decide to have a party, they always do it in a big way and the upcoming Romulus Week Festival will be no exception.

Beginning Tuesday, May 13 and continuing through Sunday, May 18, a variety of rides, shows, entertainment and contests will be staged to delight the tiny tots and young at heart.

As in years past, the Romulus festival will keep in tune with Michigan Week. However, unlike last year when the activities were planned with a 150th birthday of the city theme in mind, the events this year will be centered around the theme "We Are The Champions" in celebration of the state victory of the Romulus Eagles, the Romulus High School basketball team.

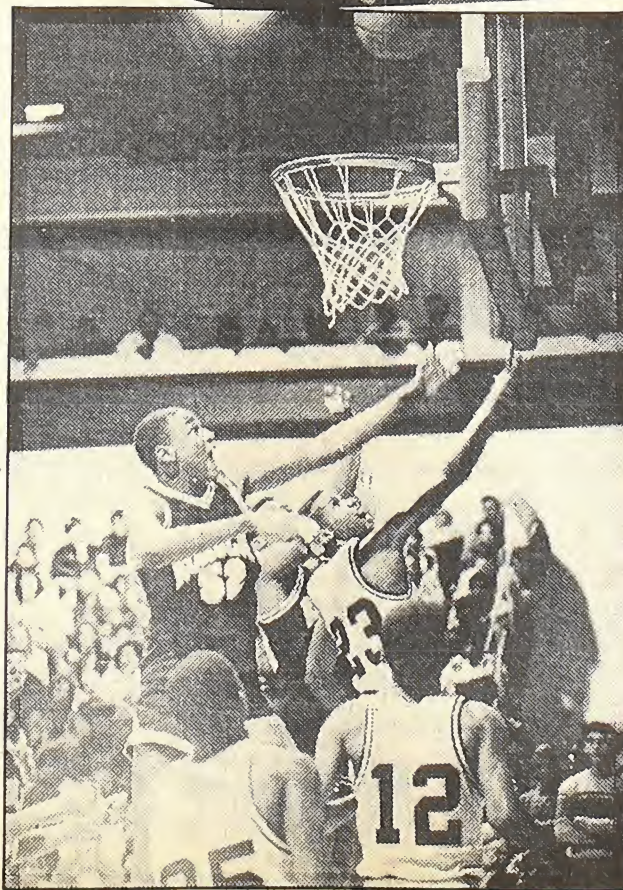

The festival kicks off with the Wade Carnival which runs each night through Sunday. A parade at 6 p.m. Friday will pay tribute to the high school basketball champs beginning at city hall and continuing throughout the downtown area.

See SCHEDULE OF EVENTS,

On Saturday, the prestigious Romulus Recreation Department Distinguished Service Award will be given and the whole week culminates with a giant 50/50 drawing at 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

An annual event, the week is sponsored by the city of Romulus in cooperation with the Romulus Community Schools and several local civic groups. Staged during Michigan Week each May, the festival is the biggest community festivity of the year.

Strike up the music, festival begins soon

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Strike up the music, the festival is about to begin. The Romulus Michigan Week Festival that is!

Beginning Tuesday, May 13 through Sunday, May 18, the not-so-small and not-so-sleepy town of Romulus will transform itself into a city of fun, games and fabulous entertainment.

"We are the Champions" is the theme of the festival and a parade honoring the achievements of the 1986 Michigan High School Basketball Class A Champions from our own Romulus High School. The theme last year celebrated the sequicentennial or 150th anniversary of the founding of Romulus.

As in years past, the carnival of W. G. Wade will offer the thrills and chills of fast and scary rides and much more.

The 10-kilometer foot race, pride of western Wayne County and Romulus starts Saturday at 9 a.m. and will include the finest and fastest runners in the country.

The Chainsaw Man of Michigan, Dr. Kenneth Bosnell will demonstrate his craft and a lucky raffle winner will benefit from his handiwork.

The Romulus Recreation Department will sponsor the first "Big Wheel Grand Prix" for kids 8 years old and younger.

A raffle for a hot air balloon champagne ride for two will take place on Sunday.

There will be entertainment, more prizes, food and even some free prizes.

The festival committee includes Dennis Davidson, Gayle Mach, Bill Smith, Kathy Darnell and Kris DeTroyer. Bill Crane and Gil White Sr. are the two coordinators. The committee now meets every Monday before the big week.

"The idea of a festival sprouted from the minds of local people. We just watered their minds," joked Gayle Mach, secretary for the Department of Recreation and secretary for the festival committee.

"The festival is sponsored by the Romulus Central Business District Association. They are the financial backers but basically we are self-supporting."

"The festival is in its fourth year. In years past, there were Downtown Romulus Days. But it wasn't the success that it should have been. We needed a gimmick and Michigan Week seemed to be just the theme we wanted," said Mach.

"We figured that there would be no competition from neighboring communities. It would be early enough in the season to avoid conflicts that arise from vacations."

"We have had a problem with the weather. Last year, there were six weeks of beautiful weather then on our week, rain. So this year we are minimizing that effect. We will have what I call shade protection. It's much more optimistic."

"There are many special events being held this year. Last year we had two wheelchair people enter the 10-kilometer run. This year, we expect over 20. And they don't like the reference handicapped but physically challenged or p.c. In the race they are called "wheelers." Everybody has seen joggers but the "wheelers" are something to watch as they spin around the corners and roll down the street."

"With our computerized finish line we can handle up to 400 runners," explained Mach.

Many business people are funding the tents. Kelsey Hayes, Chevrolet Pontiac of Canada and St. Lawrence Servo are among those generous donors.

Some of the local clubs are sponsoring booths or tents. The Kiwanis Club serves food from a gazebo. Romulus Police Reserves will have a food booth. The Arts Council will display student artwork.

"There will even be a beer tent sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce," said Bill Crane, president of the Romulus Central Business District Association.

And the bingo tent will be sponsored by the South Little League.

"Romulus Police will set up a security trailer on the festival grounds behind the recreation center near the carnival. They will fingerprint children all weekend," said Mach.

"Most of prizes have been donated by the local businesses. Our support has been good this year. We hope to make it the biggest and best ever," said Dennis Davidson also on the festival committee.

"One of our latest developments is the decorating of grocery bags. The two local grocers, IGA and Ted's Market donated enough bags for each child in the schools. They will win prizes for the best decorated bag and then be returned to the store where they will again be used for groceries. It's just a little extra publicity."

"At the banks, we've included our fliers in their mailers," said Mach.

"The parade is the kick-off event. The festival costs about $20,000. Anything over that amount goes back into the community. One year we bought a portable P.A. system. Another year we purchased park equipment. This year we hope to erect a pavilion with money earned."

"It's a great event. It's non-partisan and for all age groups. Our specialty is the entire family. It's going to be a lot of fun," said Mach.

High School cagers make their last hoorah

The Romulus High School basketball team, 1986 Michigan High School Class A champions, continue to reap the spoils of victory.

Head coach Al Wilkerson and his squad will serve as grand marshalls at the Fourth Annual Romulus Michigan Week Festival, which commences at 6 p.m. Friday, May 16 with the kick-off parade at city hall.

Following the parade, Wilkerson and his Eagles will be honored at an awards ceremony, after which the recently-crowned champs will be singing autographs.

Autographs? Wilkerson said his troops are getting acclimated to the rigors of success.

"We've had our banquet already," Wilkerson said, "and a few other things like this, so our kids are getting used to this type of attention."

But all the success hasn't jaded Wilkerson or his team.

"I really don't know what to expect," Wilkerson said. "I've never been a grand marshall before. I don't have a job description. But it'll be fun."

One problem Wilkerson faces is transportation for his somewhat bigger-than-average contingent - which (See EAGLES, page B-4)

A 'small kind of town' Romulus festival to unite community, honor athletes

BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

"It's a small town at its best," said Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally of the Romulus festival which precedes Michigan Week, "when a whole bunch of people get behind a project and make it happen.

"And Romulus will observe Michigan Week," added McAnally. "The celebrations will honor many different groups and situations. It will be like one continuing event with a lot of people involved.

"They say Romulus is 'gateway to the world.' We surround an international airport. Two major expressways and two major railroads intersect our city.

"At last year's Romulus festival we celebrated the 150th anniversary of our founding. Romulus is older than Michigan! The town was founded along Indian trails. In the 1800s, the town served as a center for the underground railroad. Its history is long and honorable," said McAnally.

"It's always good to look at what you are and where you came from. This we do during Michigan Week.

"Each day of Michigan Week has a theme. Sunday is Heritage Day. We will dedicate the oldest schoolhouse in Romulus on that day. The building was moved from its original site and will be restored in its new location behind the new post office.

"Monday is Government Day where we will have a mock city council meeting with the high school government students participating.

"Tuesday will be Senior Citizen Day with an open house and lunch at McDonalds. Wednesday is Livelihood Day. Thursday is Education Day. Friday is Hospitality Day when we will have tours of city hall.

"Many events are planned for these days.

"The whole festival is wonderful because it blends together many of the downtown business people with local officials and citizens. We're not only interested in observing Michigan Week, we want to participate," said McAnally.

"After all, Michigan is a great state. Not only are automobiles manufactured but important food crops and many other goods and services are provided by our skilled labor force. We have a

Dear Friends:

Once again it is our pleasure to announce the beginning of Michigan Week and festival. We are honoring our Championship Basketball Team and all of our achievers in their various fields by entitling our celebration "We are the Champions."

In the months and years to come I am sure we will have many celebrations of our city and our people. We have set high standards for ourselves and we have the ability to exceed them.

To the 1986 Class A State Championship Basketball Team, we wish continued success to those who will be graduating and another great year to those who will continue with the Eagles. To the coaches and parents; our appreciation. Yours was the task of encouraging the talent and putting and holding the winning team together, through good times and bad.

And that is the task of our community leadership at all levels; to utilize our assets, keep the team together and to win for us all. To that good end, we welcome the advent of Michigan Week in Romulus.

Sincerely,

Beverly McAnally

profound impact on the entire country," said McAnally with pride.

"The old schoolhouse is a first for this community. Now we have an artifact that lets the community know not just who we are but where we've been. There's a lot of pride involved. But that happens when we all put our shoulder to the wheel.

"Romulus is hung out on four corners of a 36-mile square. The airport lies within our heart. These festivals provide an excuse to get together like not many things do anymore. There's a real unifying effect. I see people I have not seen in 20 years. The festival is a focal point.

"This year we honor our high school basketball champs. They were number one in the state and we are proud. In years past, this town has produced some outstanding athletes. This year we want to dedicate ourselves to being winners and champs. Otherwise we just do the best we can," concluded McAnally.

Runners from all over to participate in 10K race

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

About 400 runners are expected to test their athletic abilities Saturday, May 17 in the Romulus Fourth Annual 10K Race, a race that contest officials believe is one of the best Michigan has to offer.

Bill Smith, Romulus Community Education teacher and director of the race, said that the extensive business course. Although this computerization does expedite race results, it also limits the number of contestants to 400, Smith said.

This year, the race will feature four airline tickets as prizes to the top finishers in the overall male, female and wheelchair divisions. In addition, trophies will be awarded to the male and female champions with plaques going to the second-place finishers, involvement and contributions from the airport have made the prizes at the Romulus race the best available in the southeastern Michigan area.

"This year, the race will feature four airline tickets as prizes to the top finishers in the overall male, female and wheelchair divisions."

"Lots of businesses are getting involved in this. Central Air Freight has given us a cash donation to financially support the event," Smith said.

The race is cosponsored by the Romulus schools and the city festival committee. Smith has been directing the program since it was first started.

Aside from fellow racers such as Tim Fox, the winner last year who also won the Detroit Free Press International Marathon, and other "premiere" racers in the area, Smith said that the Romulus run is one of the few in the area using a computerized system of scoring.

According to the director, a highly advanced computer program enables race officials to record the exact times of the runners as they cross the finish line and print out a list of the results and winners as soon as the last runner reaches the end of the paper weights for third place and medals for fourth place.

Team champions (corporate and open) will also be awarded and a prize for the two top Romulus residents will be given, Smith said. The family with the greatest number of paid immediate members will be given special recognition as well.

The race will begin at 9 a.m., Smith reported, and preregistrations will be accepted from 7:30 to 8:30. Runners should register at the Romulus Adult Education Center, 11401 Olive Street. For information, call 941-0610 weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The race has a $5 entry fee which includes a race T-shirt for all racers. If after the race these contestants yearn for a hearty meal, they will receive a $1 discount at the pancake breakfast sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

The course spans 10 kilometers over a mostly rectangular route on paved roads, according to Smith. First aid and water will be available throughout the course while a race-day clinic from 8 to 8:30 a.m. will attempt to inform runners on

As for running the race, Smith said he will pass this year although he has partici-

"It's a pleasure to run a race like this because you have tremendous sponsors behind you," said Smith. "I probably run 25 or 30 races a year. This race has to be one of the best."

Creative shopping

Elementary children 'bag it'

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

When Romulus residents make the weekly trek to the grocery store next week they may be noticing a slightly different style of brown bags. In fact, they may even find that they know the artist of the new colorfully decorated grocery bags.

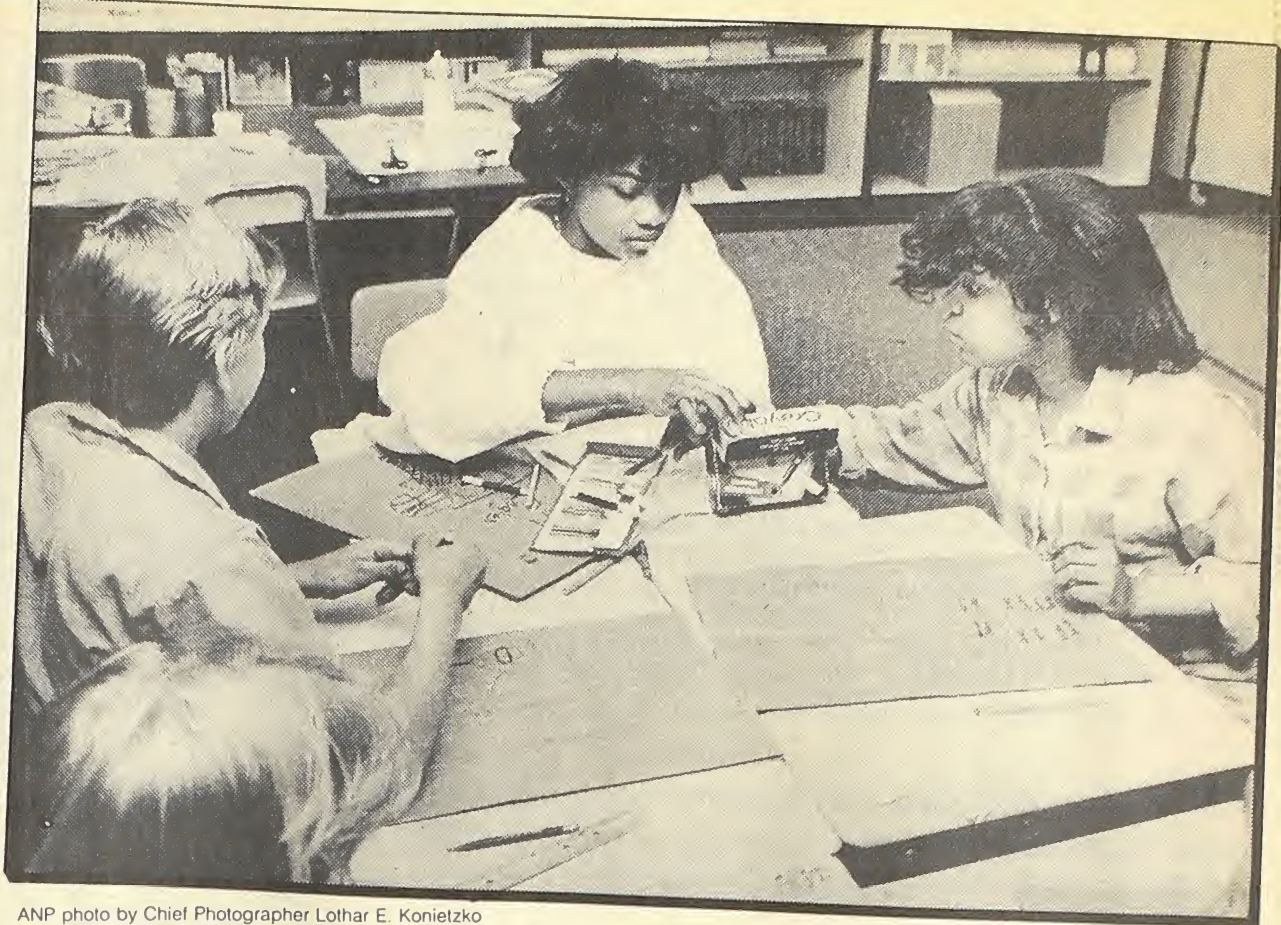

The Romulus IGA and Ted's Market have donated 6,000 brown paper bags to the six Romulus elementary schools and St. Aloysius School to be used in a grocery bag decorating contest for Michigan Week. Students in grades kindergarten through sixth will compete against each other to see who has the most creative brown bag work of art. The bags will carry the theme of the festival — "We Are the Champions" — in commemoration of the Romulus High School Basketball Team.

Carole Bales, coordinator of the contest and "bag lady" to some people, said that one student from each grade level will win the contest enabling him or her to a free day of fun and excitement on the carnival rides at the Michigan Week celebration.

The idea to paint, color and in any way possible decorate the rather plain and mundane household items and turn them into a schoolchild's masterpiece stems from a similar program launched during the recent school millage election. Students at the elementary level painted the bags with a theme of education in the school system for the election in hopes that residents would understand the importance of the passage of the additional mills, Bales said.

The students have been working on the bags for Michigan Week for the past week or so, Bales added, and the judging portion of the contest is nearly at hand. The bags will be judged within

Students at all six Romulus elementary schools are learning how to "bag it" these days thanks to the donation of 6,000 grocery bags from two local supermarkets. The grocery-bag-decorating contest is being staged in conjunction with Romulus Week and the festival theme of "We Are the Champions" is being displayed on the bags by the students. Above, fifth-graders at Wick Elementary match their artistic abilities to see who can produce the most creative bag. each school by teachers and staff members from alternating grade levels. Thus, the project coordinator said, student bags from the first grade would not be judged by first-grade teachers.

The first time such an event has been included in the Michigan Week festival, Bales said the contest has already attracted widespread popularity. So popular, she said, Romulus grocery shoppers may find themselves bringing home customed-decorated grocery bags every year at this time. "The community really likes this kind of thing," Bales said. "Sometimes people look at a bag and see who did it and say, 'Hey, I know that kid!'" includes the likes of 6-9 All-American Terry Mills and 6-6 Juan Street. Details are still being worked out.

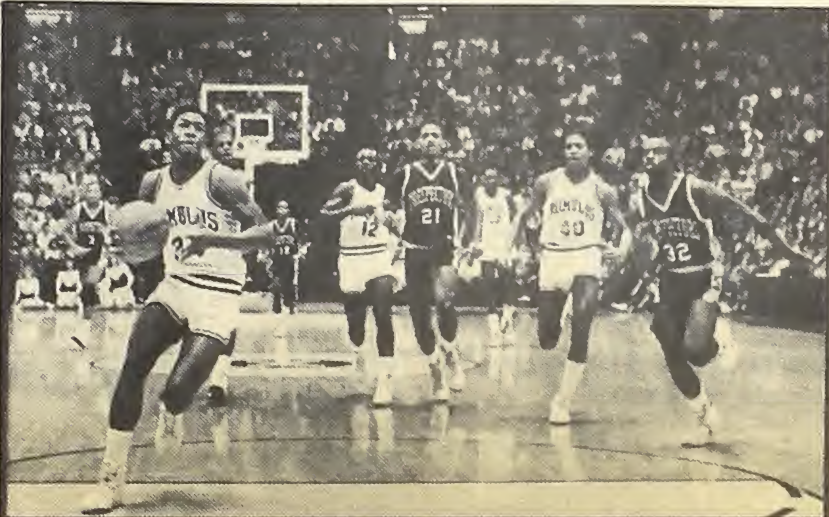

"We've got 13 people (players) and I don't know how we'll get them all in a car," Wilkerson admitted. "We haven't worked out those details yet, but we'll figure something out."

Despite the fact that Wilkerson's team rode a tightly disciplined ship to the state title, the seventh-year mentor still worries about the pitfalls of disorganization.

"The main thing I want to do is to organize the autograph session," Wilkerson said. "A lot of people want a lot of different things autographed, so I want to organize it well."

Which shouldn't be a problem. Wilkerson concedes that, despite the fact that the basketball season has been over for almost two months, his charges still know who the boss is.

"They still do what I tell them," Wilkerson said with a chuckle.

Hardrick gets prestigious city honor

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

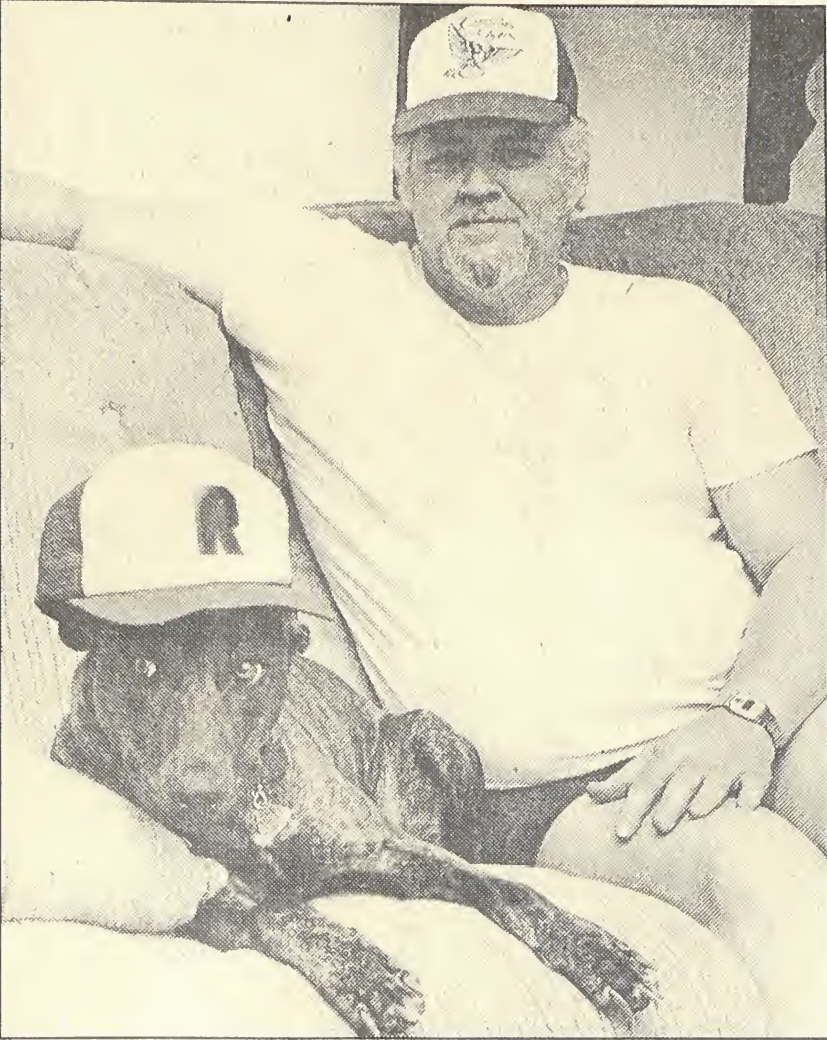

They call him "coach." And because Bill Hardrick has coached little league football in Romulus for 13 years, the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department awarded him their "Distinguished Service Award."

A plaque commemorating the award will be presented to Hardrick at 8 p.m. May 17 during Michigan Week ceremonies.

The award will be presented annually to the outstanding recreational supporter for the city of Romulus. Hardrick is honored as its first recipient.

"The Recreation Commission discussed the selection with the Department of Recreation. On behalf of the department and the community, we felt a need to honor local individuals who have volunteered time and energy for the benefit of our young people," said Debbie Dick, director for the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department.

According to the selection committee, "All of these positions are volunteer jobs and require a great deal of time. Mr. Hardrick has given unselfishly of himself for all these years and it is fitting that he be honored with this award."

Bill Hardrick poses with old faithful after winning the most prestigious award in the city.

Bill Hardrick became involved with little league when his kids were young. "I was in little league when I was young. I enjoyed it and I wanted my own kids to share that enjoyment," he said.

Hardrick is the father of four boys and one 8 year-old girl. "Right now she's a cheerleader with the Romulus Fliers but I think she wants to play little league softball," he said with a smile.

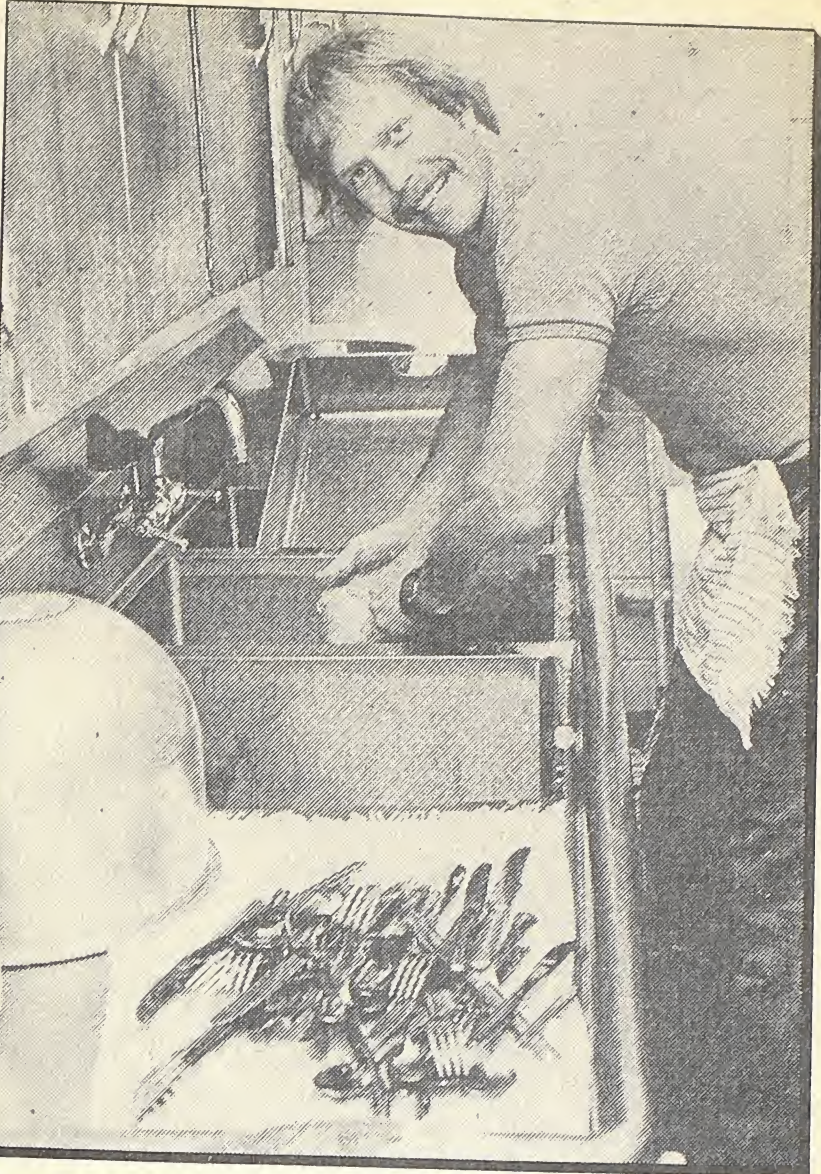

"I really like football. It's more team-oriented than baseball or track which are geared toward the individual. There's more strategy involved. A play comes off only when every kid does his job," he added.

Hardrick coaches the 9 and 10 year olds. "I like this age because they don't know much about the game. They don't know how to block or the correct stance. It's a good feeling to know that when they sit with their dad and watch football, they'll know what's going on," he emphasized.

During his 13 years of service to the community, Hardrick has served in various offices for the Romulus Athletic Club. He is currently president.

He has been the Romulus representative to the Western Suburban League. Besides football, he has coached little league baseball for several years.

"Football is a lot like the game of life," Hardrick states. "You get knocked down, you get up and you play again."

Pancakes anyone?

The Romulus Kiwanis Club will be asking that question dozens of times over Saturday, May 17 as the local civic group sponsors the annual Pancake Breakfast in conjunction with Michigan Week in Romulus and the city festival. The flapjacks will be served from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Runners in the 10K race can receive an extra food discount just by showing their registration. Cost is $3 for adults, $2 for seniors and students. No advance reservations are needed. Pictured above, Roger Kadau readies the kitchen for the big feast.

Chainsaw man to rip through festival

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Guess who's coming to Romulus? It's the Chainsaw Man of Michigan. He won't be here to film another massacre movie but to demonstrate his unique craft before visitors at Romulus Festival Week.

World renowned sculptor Dr. Kenneth D. Boshell, OB (Obstetrix) of Sterling Heights will carve the trunk of a tree for a lucky raffle winner at the festival on Sunday afternoon.

"The sculpture will be carved from a six-foot log and nearly that size when completed," said Gayle Mach, festival secretary.

"He will be working before visitors to the festival all afternoon," she added.

The sculptures of Dr. Boshell are found in some very high places. His sculpture of the "Scottish Bagpiper" stands almost 20 feet at the Indian Wood Golf and Country Club in Lake Orion, Mich. A patriotic eagle perched on an American flag looks out over Lake St. Clair in Grosse Pointe.

His life size and larger than life size sculptures in the shapes of men, women, birds, squirrels, eagles, Indians and totem poles can be found throughout the country in many obscure locations. There's even a genuine replica of Hagar the Horrible and Road Runner.

One totem pole sits in the middle of a golf course and reflects the golf jargon: "eagle," "badshot" and "birdie." The 30-foot tall sculpture took eight days to carve.

Many of the carvings are free standing. Others are sculpted from remaining tree stumps.

Boshell has become a celebrity with his craft. He has appeared on television and radio talk and news shows including the CBS Evening News with Dan Rather, P.M. Magazine and Good Afternoon Detroit. Several newspapers and magazines have written about his craft including TV Guide, the front page of the Detroit News and Free Press and American Heritage Society's

"Americana."

He has worked for celebrities such as Chris Schenkel of ABC's Wide World of Sports. The Pensacola Florida Golf Association purchased a sculpture as a gift to Bob Hope.

The Michigan Counsel of the Arts selected Boshell for a documentary titled, "Michigan Gold."

Upon seeing Boshell's work, an art critic noted, "Dr. Boshell does not sacrifice detail to form, but rather bursts the bounds of a linear trunk to bend the mind's eye to see nature boldly. He can move smoothly from caricature to more meaningful expressions and may go beyond to create an idealized abstraction."

MACH'S FLOWERS SAYS “FAREWELL & THANKS”

THE MACHS DICK, GERRY, TUT, EULA ARE RETIRING

In 1918 Richard and Sophia Mach moved their family and seven greenhouses from 56 Clippert Avenue, Detroit to Romulus, Michigan. This marked the beginning of “R. R. Mach & Sons” which later became known as “Mach’s Flowers”.

In the beginning, Richard, with his three sons: John, Walt, and Dick were known as “truck gardeners” as well as florists. They grew produce and trucked it to the Eastern market. At the same time they were gaining experience as florists utilizing the boiler room as their flower shop. It wasn’t until 1937 that the flower shop was built, thus ending their boiler room flower arranging days. These painstaking endeavors marked the dawn of a sixty-eight year tradition of providing flowers for the metro area.

Three generations of Mach’s have carried on the florist tradition keeping “Mach’s Flowers” totally family operated. John’s son, Tut, grew up in the florist business and followed in his fathers footsteps, taking on the florist industry as his trade.

The pioneers of “Mach’s” are deeply missed and fondly remembered as “Mach’s” closes their doors for the last time. In loving memory, we thank Richard & Sophia, the founders and parents of the three sons who carried on the florist business. In memory also, we pay tribute to John & Ella and Walt & Elma Mach. They are gone now, but their smiling faces and creative workmanship will always be remembered. They dedicated their lives to the florist industry. They serviced the community with a professional touch of aesthetic beauty through their love of flowers. Regrettably, they cannot be with us to share in our retirement, but their memory remains within our hearts today and always.

We would like to thank our many customers for selecting “Mach’s Flowers” as their florist. Through the years, we at “Mach’s” have grown close to you our customers and friends. It has been our pleasure doing business with you and it is with mixed feelings that all of us at “Mach’s Flowers”; Dick, Gerry, Tut and Eula, bid you farewell.

senior righthander, Tony Yandura to the mound and Yandura responded with "his best game of the season", according to Stoh. The Eagle hurler three-hit Robichaud, struck out eight and didn't walk anyone. Robichaud's Dan Seitliff sustained the loss, the Bulldog pitcher allowing eight hits, two of those going to Steve Malgay whose second inning base hit drove in Yandura and Steve Raley.

Romulus added an insurance run in the fifth when Bob Stratton doubled and scored on Jim Kusibab's single.

It was a busy week for Stoh's Eagles who split a pair of doubleheaders with Metro-West Conference rivals. Romulus committed eight errors in its 8-3 setback at the hands of Taylor Center last Tuesday. Yandura was the victim in that one, although he notched 11 strikeouts and walked two. Winner John Moss also fanned 11. Stratton, who is hitting at a torrid .446 clip, collected three hits, a double and two singles against Moss.

The Eagles came back and evened the score in the nightcap, shutting out Taylor 5-0 behind Dave Bergman's 3-hit pitching. The senior southpaw had seven strikeouts and issued four walks, while loser John Smith, was tagged for nine hits.

Romulus tilted the scoreboard for single runs in the first and second innings, then erupted for three runs in the third when Stratton led off with a single, went to third with Bergman's basehit. After Bergman stole second, Kevin Wojtylko laced a two-run single. Smith then gave up a pair of walks and Keith Brothers' sacrifice drove in what proved to be the final tally of the game.

Five runs in the third inning opened the door to an 8-6 Romulus victory over Oak Park in the first game of a doubleheader last Friday. The Parkers came back and won a "home run" derby 14-11.

In the first game, Bergman carded his second victory of the week on a six-hitter, but needed help from Yandura in the seventh to quell an Oak Park uprising. The Eagles came up with five runs in that crucial third when Steve Malgay ignited the rally with a two-bagger, then Brian Newcomb singled him to third and the Eagles then pulled off a double steal, Malgay scoring from third. Stratton walked, bringing Bergman to the plate who lashed into a Charles Lewis fastball for a triple, scoring two more runs. A single by Lenny Barr brought Bergman home.

Romulus has another 6-game week which will end on Saturday at the annual Belleville Little Caesar's Tournament.

Rockets

Shawn Dunford and Canton pitcher Kocik hooked up in a duel that will be remembered for a long time.

Glenn scored in the first inning on a ringing double by Chuck Hammontree, a pair of groundouts and an error. But Canton tied the game in the first on a walk to Aiken and a two-pout double by Lyle.

Glenn took a 2-1 lead in the second on walks to Wilson and Wells and two-out single by the elder Hammontree.

It stayed that way until the sixth when Canton took a 3-2 lead on a single by Waite, a sacrifice (one of seven in the game for the Chiefs), a walk to Young, another sacrifice and a double by Aiken.

The game could have been long over for the Rockets earlier but Kenyon made two catches at the wall that had Canton hitters talking to themselves.

But Glenn refused to die. With two out in the seventh, M. Hammontree and Irwin singled. A walk to Tavormina loaded the bases and an error produced the tying run.

There it stayed until the 10th when Canton got four walks, the last to Johnson with the bases loaded, to force home the winning run.

But Glenn responded to an even greater challenge in the second game --- playing with only 10 players because of the Senior Prom. However, Glenn came up with a 3-2 victory as Tom Walker singled in one run and Clint Straub got the last out for the save as Glenn's title express sailed.

Belleville presented their rookie coach John Bertz with his inaugural conference victory last Tuesday with an extra-inning triumph over Dearborn Fordson. The Tigers then came right back in the next conference duel on Thursday to whip Wyandotte for their rookie skipper and the coach (above) feels his team "is finally putting it together."

First for Tigers: Belleville presents rookie coach with league victory

When Belleville High's varsity baseball club decides to do something for their rookie coach they do it in style.

The Tigers not only presented Coach John Bertz with his first but his second Wolverine 'A' Conference victories in one week. The victories came at the expense of Fordson, 7-6, and of Wyandotte, 12-3. The Tigers entered the week with an over-all 4-7 record.

"It's always feels good to win your first," said Bertz whose Tigers are 2-4 in league play. "You always wonder when that will happen."

In Belleville and Bertz' case it came in the 10th inning last Tuesday at Fordson with Charlie Diltz, the third Tiger hurler, getting the historic win. Diltz led off the 10th with a single, and went to second on Brian Lovelace's infield hit. Then, with one-away, Dennis Montie walked and Matt Stoelton laced a fielder's choice with Diltz out at the plate. Fordson hurler Dave Rupp then unleashed a wild pitch, allowing Lovelace to score with what proved to be the winning run.

Both teams scored two-runs in the ninth after each had collected four tallies in the regular seven-innings.

"We were down by two and refused to quit," Bertz said. "It shows the caliber of this team. They finally put it all together."

Montie opened the ninth with a walk, then Stoelton doubled and Brett Price singled, driving in one run. When Steve Ostrowski singled in the second run, the game was again knotted at 6-all. Ostrowski finished the game with a pair of singles and he also scored three runs.

In the lopsided 12-3 victory over Trenton, Diltz, a right-hander, went the distance.

Last stand for Spartans

When Cherry Hill thinclads took to the field yesterday to host Taylor Kennedy, an era came to an end at the Inkster-based high school. It was the last time that the Spartans would host a track & field meet.

"The school is closing at the end of the school year," said Dick Gordon, head track coach. "It's kind of sad. But, I guess there is nothing one can do about it."

Cherry Hill School District voters two years ago voted to merge with the Wayne-Westland schools and the phase-out at Cherry Hill will be completed in June.

In the meantime the Spartans and Coach Gordon are well on their way of winning an unprecedented 15th consecutive Tri-River Conference championship. Their No. 4 victory came with relative ease as they humbled Thurston 105-32 last Thursday, (earlier they beat back Melvindale 92-44).

"I juggled our line-up against Thurston, after all I didn't want it to look too bad against my alma mater," quipped Gordon. One of the highlights of the meet was the record-setting performance by Scott Johnson who had a put of 52 feet, 1 inch that won the event and also erased the 13-year mark of former Cherry Hill great, Wayne Cariveau, who had a toss of 51 feet, 11 inches.

It was Johnson's efforts that had triggered Cherry Hill's victory in the shot put relays at the prestigious Wayne Invitational.

Gordon was pleased with his team's fourth-place finish at Wayne.

"Considering that most of the schools are Class A and we are 20 short of being a Class B school, we did exceptionally well," he said.

Spartan girls are undefeated

Destroying Melvindale 91-39 last Tuesday and whipping Thurston 88-39 on Thursday, Cherry Hill's girls have extended their track & field winning streak to four last week.

"We are doing just fine," said Coach Jeff Shough. "We have some runners on the injury list and when they get back we should be even better."

Francetta Saxton figured in four of the Spartans' 13 first places against Thurston as she won the 400-meter event with a time of 66.6. She also anchored the winning 3200-meter relay with Linda Turza, Denanna

White and Karen Mulrooney also in the line-up. The winning 800-meter relay consisted of Michele Stevens, Terri Crockett. Yolanda Brown and Saxton, while the 1,600-meter foursome was made up of Stevens, Crockett, Selette Walker and Saxton.

Tonia Walker continued to dominate the sprints as she ran a winning 13.07 for the 100 and came back with a 30.1 for the 200. Rouser teamed with Angela Jordan, Stevens and Brown for a 54.7 in winning the 400-meters while Sue Leskun captured a first in the discus and Shannon White was the top shot putter.

Wayne rips Trenton thinclads

Coach Joe Grasley believes that this year's team may be able to accomplish what some prep track observers believe is an impossible feat.

And, the first year "But, off of our performances at our own relays I believe that we have served notice that we are as good as any around," Grasley said. "And we can emerge with the title if we continue to work hard and keep improving."

After defeating Trenton 83-54, Wayne has an untarnished 6-0 dual meet record. They will meet the defending champ, Monroe, in a head-on collision later this month in the final conference dual meet of the season.

In the meantime Wayne's girls' track team also defeated Trenton, 74-54, and it was the first time in recent history that the Zebras had accomplished that feat.

Buckhalter was runner-up to Willow Run's Sheronda Sticker in the race for the gold in the 100-meters. Sticker was clocked in 12.56, while Diana hit the tape in 12.6.

Phyllo dough makes 'heavenly' treats

All it takes is one tiny bite of that heavenly Greek confection we call Baklava to taste the flakiness. Observe the gossamer crusts part like the Red Sea when touched with a fork while nibbling a Hungarian strudel. These are but two of the best known examples of the major uses of phyllo dough.

Phyllo (pronounced fee-low) is that flaky, tissue-thin, melt-in-your-mouth, Middle Eastern pastry which is the ideal wrap-up for an infinite variety of fillings from dainty appetizers and escargots to savory main courses and divine desserts.

First off, let's set the record straight. It is advised that you not attempt to make your own sheets of phyllo. An attempt was made to get Mrs. Kourapolmatis who lives down the street to become a "live-in" guest of my kitchen, but alas, Mr. Kourapolmatis chose to horde all her homemade phyllo for himself. Needless to say, making phyllo at home is tricky, time consuming, and you must work fast, because the almost transparent sheets dry out quickly.

Commercially prepared phyllo (available fresh at Greek and Armenian stores and frozen in supermarkets) is thinner and finer than anything you could ever hope to produce in your own kitchen. If at all possible, purchase fresh "leaves," as the most transparent sheets of the dough are called. Frozen dough may have been allowed to soften and then become refrozen, which so often causes the fragile leaves to disintegrate into shreds when you try to separate them. If you are lucky enough to find a shop that carries fresh leaves, find out when they are delivered and make plans to pick up a few batches that day.

Freeze the extra phyllo yourself in double-wrapped and well-sealed bags or foil. You can keep phyllo in the fridge for about four to five days, provided you keep it wrapped tightly and in a slightly moist tea-towel.

One of the secrets of a thin, homemade phyllo dough, should you choose to attempt the near-impossible, is choosing the correct flour. Hungarians mix two kinds of flour, hard wheat for body and soft wheat for its high gluten content. Mrs. Kourapolmatis shared her secret recipe that uses three kinds of flour, hard, soft and instantized. All three can be purchased readily at most health food stores and good gourmet shops.

Whatever you do, don't hesitate to change the shapes and the fillings of any of the below listed recipes. A recipe given for a rectangular shape could also be baked in a large pie plate, then cut into wedges instead of squares. Mrs. K. loved to roll her phyllo in large, fat logs that puffed up after baking and were so golden delicate that they just crumbled when attacked with a fork. Experiment with fillings that range from cheese to stuffings to simple sauteed vegetables. Even a meat loaf takes on an aura of elegance when enveloped in flaky phyllo. Most of all, enjoy!

BON APPETIT! HOMEMADE STRUDEL (PHYLLO) DOUGH

Makes 1 large or 2 small strudels

- ¾ cup unsifted soft wheat flour
- ¾ cup unsifted hard wheat flour
- ¾ cup instantized flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons vinegar
- 1½ teaspoons unsalted butter
- 1 egg, lightly beaten

Sift flour(s) and salt into a large bowl. Pour vinegar into a measuring cup and add enough warm water to make ½ cup. Make a well in the center of the flour and add vinegar mixture, butter and egg. Mix with a wooden spoon and hands to make a dough, adding a few more drops of warm water if necessary. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic and blisters form on the surface, about 20 minutes. Pick up dough and slap it hard on the board for 5 minutes to remove any air pockets. Form dough into a ball, cover with a bowl and let rest for 45 minutes. Roll out as thinly as possible on a lightly floured surface.

BURGUNDY ESCARGOTS BAKED IN PHYLLO

- 24 escargot
- 2 cups cheap burgundy
- ½ cup butter, melted
- ½ pound phyllo dough, cut into 2 inch strips

Allow the escargots to marinate overnight in the burgundy.

Butter and stack 3 sheets of the phyllo. Place an escargot on the lower corner and fold or roll the dough so that the edges are sealed. (Try the old flag folding technique.) Brush with melted butter and place on a baking sheet. Broil till golden.

SEAFOOD STRUDEL

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon mustardcayenne pepper to taste
- ¾ cup milk, room temp.
- 2 tablespoons whipping cream
- 1 cup breadcrumbs
- ¼ cup parmesan cheese
- ½ pound phyllo dough
- ½ cup grated swiss cheese
- 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- ¾ cup sour cream
- ¼ cup green onions, chop
- 1 large clove garlic, chop
- ¾ pound butter, melted
- 1 lb. cleaned, cooked fish of your choice (shrimps, monk, etc.)

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a small saucepan over low heat. Stir in flour to make a roux, stirring constantly till mixture begins to bubble. Remove from heat and add mustard, pinch of salt and cayenne pepper. Slowly stir in milk, place over medium heat and cook, stirring till mix bubbles and thickens. Add cream, cover and chill till very thin, about 2 hours. Pre-heat oven to 375 degrees. Butter a baking sheet and combine breadcrumbs, parmesan and dry mustard in a small bowl. Brush each sheet of phyllo with remaining butter and a layer in the baking pan. Layer seafood evenly on the phyllo and sprinkle with swiss cheese and chopped egg, dot with sour cream. Sprinkle with parsley, green onions and garlic, then dot with chilled sauce. Roll up into a strudel form and seal edges in while rolling. Brush with melted butter and bake for 12-15 minutes. Brush with more butter and continue baking for 35 minutes (or till crisp and browned.) Dust with parmesan.

APPLE STRUDEL

- 1 pound phyllo dough
 - 1 lb. butter, melted
 - ¾ cup sugar
 - 1 cup chopped walnuts
 - ½ cup golden raisins, plumped
 - 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
 - 2 lbs. apples
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- Combine sugar, walnuts, raisins and cinnamon in a bowl. Set aside. Peel core and thinly slice the apples into a large bowl. Sprinkle with lemon juice and toss thoroughly. Add raisin mixture and mix well. Taste and add more sugar if apples are too tart. Brush half the phyllo with melted butter and stack in baking pan. Fill with apple-nut mix and top with remaining phyllo, also brushed with butter. (Or, strudel can be rolled) Bake for 10 minutes at 375 degrees, brush with more melted butter continue baking at 375 degrees for 35 minutes. Let cool slightly and serve dusted with powdered sugar. (No calories in this one, folks!)

BAKLAVA (Betcha Can't Eat Just One Piece!)

- 1 lb. phyllo dough
 - 1 lb. butter, clarified
 - 1½ pounds walnuts, chopped fine
 - ½ cup sugar
 - 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- Begin layering phyllo with melted butter in a 9x13 baking pan. Use about ¼ of the dough. Top with ½ of the nut mixture, then another third of dough. Top with remaining nuts, then remaining dough which each sheet was again brushed with melted butter. Cut into squares, bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. While the baklava is cooking, make a syrup with:

1½ cups sugar
1 stick cinnamon
1 cup water

½ sliced lemon
2 tablespoons honey
Boil first 4 ingredients for 15 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in honey. Cool slightly and pour over warm baklava. (Again, no calories folks!)

Unveiling the unknown

Local psychic claims she has traveled to 'the other side'

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Life in 17th Century Ireland was rough, according to Kathleen Dusseau, who claims to have lived in the country from 1678 through 1714. But that life was no comparison with modern America, she reported, coming back to the 20th Century to learn about the world of high technology.

Dusseau, a "master" from "the other side" made the remarks last week while transcending through the body of 34-year-old Pennie Forsythe in Canton. Although both admit that they would be perceived as slightly bizarre entities in a confused modern world, both claim that reincarnation, psychic abilities and the world of the unknown are as real as America, baseball and apple pie.

Forsythe never considered herself a psychic during childhood thinking that seeing spirits was a normal phenomenon for humans. And even meeting up with Dusseau six years ago, the expectant mother of three today only considers herself a "closet psychic."

"When I was 13 or 14, it (her psychic ability) was for my family, close friends - no one else. That's just not me," Forsythe said.

Her apparent extraordinary abilities became public, however, when she became a transmedium for Dusseau.

According to Forsythe, a transmedium is someone who allows his own soul to leave his body and allow another soul from "the other side" to enter. During this period the human body functions normally, although it has a slightly lower body temperature.

Forsythe likened the experience to that of a seance without the mysterious candlelight atmosphere. She first started to trance six years ago after seeing Dusseau materialize from dust in the sunlight.

The homemaker and wife of a teenager described the incident as bizarre and shocking. She said that while sitting in her living room one day she saw the sunlight hit the dust particles in the air in a most unusual fashion. At first she discarded the action as only nerves from a vibrations are much lower than those in the spiritual form.

"I have until recently gone to the other side which is a dimension in itself. Until you've been there, you don't know how to explain it. Technically I die when I

"Forsythe admitted that being a transmedium in the 1980s was not easy. It's so difficult, she said, that she would gladly exchange her superhuman powers in exchange for life as a "normal" housewife and mother."

tiring day but when the body of a woman materialized, she said she knew that the situation was not just her imagination.

Forsythe admitted that being a transmedium in the 1980s was not easy. It's so difficult, she said, that she would gladly exchange her superhuman powers in exchange for life as a "normal" housewife and mother. But, Pennie Forsythe no longer has a say in the matter.

"The other day she (Kathleen Dusseau) didn't understand our way of living. So she decided she would come through and go to the unemployment office," Forsythe said. "She grabbed someone's hand and said 'hi, how are you.' Every time she does something like that I say 'God, she didn't say anything did she?'"

Forsythe said that Kathleen transcends at her will two or three times each day on the average, so often that Forsythe finds herself short of time to complete her daily duties as a housewife.

While Kathleen is using her body, Pennie said that she can go to one of two places - "the other side" or in the midst of the room in which Kathleen is speaking. If she stays in the room, however, Pennie said that hearing the human voice is very difficult since human go there but my silver cord (the alleged cord connecting the soul and the human body) isn't severed," Pennie said.

Forsythe said that the whole concept of transcending involves energy and the conservation of it. The "closet psychic" said that the energy level on earth is much lower than that on "the other side" and that when she is out of her body the couch in the living room is transparent and the motion of a running dog looks like a movie in very slow motion.

The psychic said that anyone can astro-project or go to "the other side" with proper training. And with classes that she, another psychic and Kathleen are offering in the coming months, Forsythe said proper training will be as close as a phone call away.

Seeing is believing, Forsythe said, and many of her closest relatives are beginning to believe in Kathleen and the connection with "the other side" after being healed of various human ailments. Even her own faith in the sometimes-outlandish events was restored, she said, when her own troubles with lupus disease were cured by Kathleen.

"My dad is a very firm believer in this - it's hard not to believe when you have diabetes and feet problems and all of the sudden you can walk right again," she Lynne Browning and Pennie Forsythe peer into an astrology manual as one means of forecasting the future. Browning has been a psychic since her early teens and has been actively involved in the creation of a local forum for psychics, The Psychic Eye. Forsythe says she has been psychic since early childhood but never really knew of her special human qualities until later in life. Today she describes herself as a "closet psychic" because she is reluctant to display her powers in public.

said. "But, how do you explain to people, 'Oh, excuse me, in the middle of our conversation my entity might come through?'"

Forsythe lives in Redford and has been married for two years to a teenager who she believes is her long-lost twin from Atlantis. Apparently, 1,000 spiritual souls split in Atlantis during the early years of the earth and are now being joined back together by Kathleen. Pennie claims she is one such twin.

Nevertheless, even as her lifestyle is scheduled to plunge her into the television and media limelight, Pennie wishes it were all just a dream. She'd rather practice her love for astrology, a characteristic she said she must have acquired in a past life as an astrologer.

Nevertheless, she said she won't fight Kathleen's intrusion into her body and she won't fight the being from "the other side" and her goal of educating the human race with the true meaning of life - to learn valuable lessons in this world and the next, back and forth through reincarnation until all lessons are learned. After this time, Forsythe said one becomes a master similar to Kathleen Dusseau.

"I have been terrified of crowds since I was a child. I am basically a very quiet person. I stay to myself. Kathleen wants crowds and wants to teach," Pennie said. "I'm not like this. It's not something I hate doing, but it's just not something I really want to do."

ray day speaking

I'll admit it - I am a skeptic. When news of this story first hit my desk I gave it a chuckle and made the interview appointment.

I've never been engrossed into the world of the psychic, the closest I've ever come to all of this craze was read my daily horoscope. However, I must now admit that the whole incident was fascinating and perhaps the most bizarre and totally interesting interview I have ever done.

I arrived at the Canton home of Lynne Browning at about 4:10, somewhat tardy for my 4 p.m. appointment. I laughingly asked myself if I would be cursed for being late and with a great deal of skepticism began my interview.

There I met Pennie Forsythe, a pregnant, heavy woman in her mid-30s. She wore a very plain dress and reminded me of the usual Michigan women I had been accustomed to seeing.

ray day

After about an hour and one-half of talking with Pennie, I nervously said I was ready to meet the famed Kathleen Dusseau. My interview with Pennie had been interesting, to say the least, as she read my ring and told of my future in the journalism business and in life in general.

Pennie put her head down and breathed a few deep breaths. Then, a breathing sound deeper than anything I have ever heard escaped. Pennie's dress waivered slightly as if the wind were blowing in the room but the doors and all windows were secure.

Pennie was just an average woman, she didn't strike me as one with a very vast education or cultural background. Her voice was plainly American and her mannerisms distinctly of this century.

After this deep breath, the woman's head again rose, her face was unchanged. After briefly looking around the room she smiled at me and said hello in a distinctly Irish accent, so distinct I had trouble understanding her.

She started the conversation describing to me the conditions in Ireland during the latter part of the 17th Century.

"There was no meat, we ate mostly vegetables. There was a lot of fever," Kathleen said assuringly.

She continued to explain that she herself died of the fever in 1714 after having hidden a Catholic priest from outlaws.

Dusseau told me that the American way of medicine is out of line. She said that sick people shouldn't have to pay a fee to be cured and that many of the treatments patients are exposed to - like X-rays - are doing our human bodies more harm than good.

Kathleen said she uses Pennie Forsythe as a transmedium because Pennie is such a humble person. She explained that she became a master after her last life in Ireland and has now been assigned to teach on earth, heal the sick and bring the lost Atlantian twins together. She claims this directive comes from the supreme master himself – Jesus Christ of Christianity.

Kathleen said she comes to the earth often just to experience life in the 20th Century.

“When I see something that I wish to see through her (Pennie’s) eyes, I transcend. (At the unemployment line) I wanted to see why people were standing in line to receive money.”

Apparently in order to convince me that the whole scene was realistic and not the perfectly plotted scene from a science fiction novel that I was imagining, Kathleen offered me a few personal and worldly predictions.

Even though I found it hard to believe that a person as quiet and calm collected as me once scouted the seaways as a buccaneer in my past life, I was impressed to know that my future was budding in my career and that my life would be long and for the most part happy.

The world, however, did not have such an optimistic outlook, according to Kathleen.

Dusseau said that the recent Soviet nuclear disaster was part of the destiny of the world. In essence, she said, it will teach all nations that a nuclear war is not something any nation should fool with.

Kathleen said that more than 4,000 lives were lost in the explosion and that radiation will reach the western part of the United States by mid-summer causing high levels of cancer in animals in that region.

In addition, she said war was eminent and will come before December. This confrontation, she added, will be sparked by Moamar Khadafy and his “insane” ideals. This war will be similar to the one in Vietnam with the Soviets only indirectly involved. Heavy bloodshed will be suffered on both sides although the U.S. will emerge as a victor after about 18 months of fighting.

Natural disasters will continue, Kathleen said, with a major earthquake scheduled in California in August. This quake, she said, will begin in the San Francisco area and stretch downward to the Mexican border. By the year 2000, Kathleen feels the state will break away from the continent of North America.

President Reagan will again be the target of an assassin’s bullet in March of next year but will again survive, according to Dusseau. He will live through his term, she said, although she could not say who will be the victor of the ‘88 presidential contest.

In three weeks, Kathleen predicted a British freighter will be hit by terrorists, the population in the world will decline as a deep famine hits Africa and a U.S. military base in Sicily will also be a terrorism target. In addition, the Queen of England will be endangered due to widespread bombings in England, Libyan bombs will hit American ships docked in the Libyan port and gasoline prices at home will rise to levels above which they were before the drastic fall.

Michiganians will experience a late winter this year, she said, and a hot summer. Trick or treaters on Halloween will do so in 60-degree weather.

Kathleen told me of personal spiritual guides (guardian angels) and urged me to contact them when down and out.

With that she again bowed her head and a deep sigh was again heaved. And, just as before, the woman, whose physical appearance hadn’t changed, raised her head, looked around the room and in a distinctly southeastern Michigan accent said, “Well, how did she do?”

I’ll admit it—I’m still skeptical. I need some proof before I believe anything. Kathleen promised some proof in the form of her voice whispering in my ear and blinking lights shooting around my bedroom late at night.

I haven’t heard any voices yet and I’ve stayed awake far too long now waiting for these lights. But I’m still waiting. The show was most impressive and very realistic. If this is all just a hoax, I know of one woman who should receive an Academy Award for her acting abilities.

Students take honors at local science fair

Ten Franklin Junior High School students, competing in the Science Olympiad for the first time, scored one gold medal victory and participated well in a number of other events.

Kim Pettit was the gold-medal winner in the “Rocks to Riches” event in which she competed against 30 other area school representatives to identify 50 mineral samples.

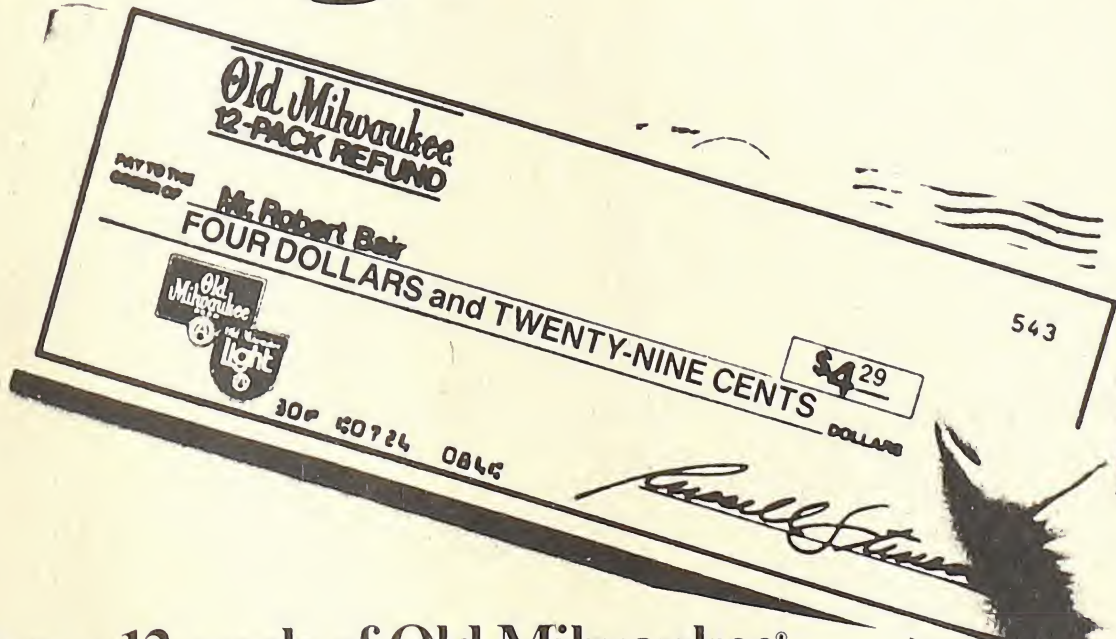

The Science Olympiad, conducted at the University of Michigan at Dearborn, is a national non-profit organization devoted to improving the quality of science education, increasing student interest in science and providing recognition for outstanding achievements by students and teachers in science education.

Members of the Franklin team included Dennis Hays, Robert Kaminski, Chris Karath, Brian McMillan, Kathie Owens, Kim Pettit, Chris Pfeiffer, David Phillips and Wayne Trapp. Chrissy Kaiser served as alternate and coaches were Warren Rysberg, Catherine Grieve, Lee Smith and Richard Fisch, all science instructors at Franklin.

Pentathlon contestants were Brian McMillan, Kathie Owens, Kim Pettit and Wayne Trapp. Chris Karath and Chris Pfeiffer were the entries in the computer programming event and David Phillips competed in the paper airplane event. Brian McMillan participated in the metric estimation, Robert Kaminski and Chris Karath competed in “Password” and the “Science Bowl” event included Dennis Hays, Robert Kaminski, Brian McMillan and Kim Pettit.

Norma Jean Rines smiles widely with her son Robert after taking first place in the Associated Newspapers Mother's Day Contest.

Still no job for Hellum

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

Joanna Hellum, the Westland resident who placed an ad in the Associated Newspapers in search of a full-time job paying $6 per hour, is still out of work but two budding job offers have her more optimistic about the future of her job search.

"I have two more pretty good leads from the ad. One was for Industrial Strainer, the other is for a trucking firm," Hellum said. "I had quite a few calls the first day but I was working. I'm just waiting to see what happens."

follow up

Hellum placed the ad two weeks ago offering a $100 reward to anyone able to find her a job that she believes will lead to a career opportunity and support herself and her 6-year-old child.

Brandt Services, a Westland-based foster care home, called the Associated Newspapers last week saying they had offered Hellum a full-time job with the firm but the job seeker never showed up.

According to the caller, Hellum was to show up March 20 for a position as a direct care worker helping disabled adults. In turn for the 37 to 40 hours each week of work, Hellum would receive $4.22 per hour, almost $2 less than what she was requesting in the classified advertisement.

Hellum said the story was true but that the official from Brandt Services had missed the point of her ad.

"She really missed the point of the whole thing. I can work any place for $4 an hour. I can make $5 with Rita (her foster mother who also operates a foster care facility). If I'm going to go to work with anyone it would be for $5. Why would I want to work for $4?" said Hellum.

Nevertheless, Hellum said she will continue in pursuit of a job that will lead to an eventual career. And according to the woman who now makes $3.40 at a part-time position in Canton, the search for a job cannot be any more uphill than it has already been.

Norma Rines . . . our mom of the year

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Eleven-year-old Robert Rines thinks his mom is the greatest, and the judges of the Mother of the Year contest agree that Robert's mother is a very special person.

"Without her, where would I be?" Robert said in his letter. "We lost my dad on May 1, 1985. I hope I can be the winner as I owe her so much. I have a brother who has brain damage and she does not forget him. My mom goes to Northville every other day and she still has a smile and love for me. And, I love her so much."

The day after Robert's letter arrived, a second communication came from the Westland boy who started his letter with "Hi! It's me again" and added "My mom has done so much for me, I want to show how much I love her. She is my mom and dad and friend."

Norma Jean Rines was pleased to receive the honor, but not surprised that Robert had nominated her because "he's always doing nice things for me."

Robert, who is her adopted son, read the article announcing the contest himself, she said. Robert is an avid reader, often reading newspaper items to her when she isn't wearing her reading glasses.

Mrs. Rines, our Mother of the Year, will receive a $50 gift certificate from Stuart's Apparel, 35136 Michigan Ave., Wayne; $50 worth of beauty services from Sadie's Beauty Salon, 3131 S. Wayne Road, Wayne; and a $50 gift certificate to treat her family to dinner at Molly McQuire's Restaurant, 34290 Ford Road, Westland.

Selection of a grand prize winner and the five runners-up was a difficult chore due to the many excellent letters received and the number of mothers who deserve recognition for their years of loving, caring and unselfish giving to their offspring.

From among the numerous entries received, five were selected as the runners-up and each mother will receive a certificate recognizing her "outstanding and meritorious performance in her role as mother." The certificate also honors our runners-up for going beyond the normal call of duty by "always being there when needed and giving unselfishly of herself in all matters."

Runners-up in the contest are: Phyllis Lowe of Winifred Street in Wayne, Mary Jo Parady of Gloria Drive in Canton, Peggy Thomas of Farnum Street in Inkster, Odalee Hoeft of West Wabash in Belleville, and Janette Murphy of Wabash Street in Romulus.

The seven Lowe children, all of whom are grown, nominated their mother for "making each one of us feel as though we were the only child when we needed her." They recalled that their mother made "a dime allowance seem like a fortune" and remembered her climbing into a storm drain to retrieve their lost baseball. The Lowes said their mother, Phyllis, should be named "mother of the century."

Jay Parady nominated his mother, Mary Jo, because "she makes me feel good when I am feeling down" and "if I don't understand something she will stop whatever she's doing and listen to what I have to say."

Fred Thomas says his mom "calms me down with her love when I am angry and she helps me when I am in trouble." Fred also wrote that his mother, Peggy, loves and understands people, and "she also loves me."

Odalee Hoeft is described by her daughter, Christine Hoeft-Loyer as a "Florence Nightingale, Dr. Spock, Billy Graham, Dear Abby and a good friend."

She shines brightest when "she is able to stand back, allowing us to make our own decisions, trusting that she has taught us well. A very difficult task for any mother!" according to Christine.

Among the many excellent nominations received was a letter from a non-family member asking that Margaret Griffin receive the honor. The letter-writer described her as a "high energy, classy lady who coordinates activities for herself and family that few would attempt, much less dream of." Griffin, the wife of Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, was also described as the "catalyst and glue in keeping the mayor both happy and on time for his demanding schedule." Also from Westland was a nomination for Pamela Erdei, the mother of three, who is "coordinator of a children's ministry, an extremely skilled computer programmer/analyst, and serves as treasurer of her husband's campaign for state representative."

Are You Concerned About Your Child's School Friends?

Peer group influence is one of the greatest concerns of today's parents. At home, or around the neighborhood, you can monitor the kind of friends that your child spends time with, but school is often a different story.

The Temple Christian School is looking for bright, motivated young people who want the best Christ-centered education available. Our time is spent in teaching your child, not in disciplining a few troubled youngsters. If you're ready to give your child a new set of friends, give us a call.

Cancer is often curable. The fear of cancer is often fatal.

If you're afraid of cancer... you're not alone. But some people are so afraid that they won't go to the doctor when they suspect something's wrong.

They're afraid the doctor might "find something." This kind of fear can prevent them from discovering cancer in the early stages when it is most often curable.

These people run the risk of letting cancer scare them to death.

Mothers

Peggy Rosati of Westland nominated her adoptive mother, Carol Rosati, as Mother of the Year, writing "she not only made my childhood a great time by being a wonderful mom, but she's become a great friend now that I've completed my first year at college." Ron Czajka, also of Westland, wrote out his mother's busy daily schedule from the time she gets up and makes breakfast for the family, through her work day and finally when she returns to Dixie Washington of Inkster was nominated by her seven children who are "so proud of her for what she has done." The letter writer added, "even if she doesn't win, she's still number one to us."

Jeannie McFarland of Wayne nominated her mother, Dorothy, in a letter she wrote as if she were writing it to her mother. "The things you have done for me and taught me, I will cherish forever," she nating their mothers for the honor because "she is beautiful," "she cleans my room," "she is smart and nice," "she gives me kisses and hugs," and "she cooks very, very good." One youngster described her mother as "beautiful, helpful, nice, magnificent, great, smart, pretty, wonderful, special and terrific."

Another child wrote "we bring her breakfast in bed on Mother's Day. If we didn't love her, we would not bring her breakfast in bed." An Inkster girl described her mom as "the best mother in the world," and as an apparent afterthought wrote "I still wonder why she got the toy for me?" Happy Mother's Day to all of the women nominated and special congratulations to the winner and five runners-up.

Another child wrote "we bring her breakfast in bed on Mother's Day. If we didn't love her, we would not bring her breakfast in bed."

clean house, cook dinner and then takes Ron and his sister places.

In Jason Moynar's letter nominating his mother, the Canton boy wrote that "she is also strict sometimes. I don't like it, but it's for my own good." He adds that she is "the greatest mom a kid could have." Terri Junge of Romulus wrote that her mother "somehow always stays smiling." Theresa Grenier of Belleville nominated her mother, Irene, who "always has time for us."

Cathy Stabnau, as an adult, looks back on all the things her mother, Janet, did in the past and appreciates "all the love, trust, support, pride and faith my mother has always had in me." The Belleville resident also expressed her appreciation of the care her mother gave her during a serious illness. She wrote that "not once in the 10 weeks I spent with her did she complain about the huge burden I was placing on her."

wrote. "When I hurt, you hurt and when I cried, you cried and when I ventured into the world, the worry as I left the house was in your eyes. And you didn't rest until I was safe at home."

Joan Gietzen of Wayne received a nomination from her daughter, Cheryl Tappen, who wrote "God blessed her with nine healthy children that she loved and counted it a privilege and joy to raise. The unending daily chores and responsibilities of a large family are great, yet my mother performed them with the beautiful attitude of a joyful heart."

NAMED ONE OF THE TOP AGENTS for 1985 at Farm Bureau Insurance Group recently was Richard Piana of Laurenwood Drive, Wayne. The award was based on his record of sales and service for the year and is reserved for top Producers at the company.

"MEMORY MASTER INSTITUTE will be the theme at the Canton Chamber of Commerce Meeting Wednesday, May 7 at the Roman Forum Restaurant, Ford Road in Canton. Memory improvement and retention will be featured, along with some entertainment. Those that can remember should call for reservations at 453-4040. The program is open to the public by reservation only. Lunch is at noon with the program immediately following.

CANTON CHAMBER: Memory workshop planned.

CELEBRATING 16 YEARS IN BUSINESS is Herman's Sporting Goods in Westland. Starting in 1970 with only one store in New York City, Herman's World of Sporting Goods is now the largest specialty retailer of sporting goods, sports apparel and athletic footwear in the United States. Herman's is a chain of 129 stores serving markets across the U.S. including Detroit. Company officials believe that one key to the success for the operation is their goal of maintaining high visibility to the public through extensive newspaper ads, radio commercials and circulars.

ANOTHER ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION is being staged at Little Caesar's Restaurant of Westland. Opening their first store in Garden City on the Westland border in 1966, company officials say that the franchise has grown by "leaps and bounds" over the years to now boast of being a nationwide pizza company.

PARTICIPATING IN THE Michigan Special Olympics 1986 State Softball Tournament will be American Speedy Printing Center of Wayne. The tournament, which is expected to draw 24 Special Olympics softball teams and more than 350 athletes, is designed to raise funds for the organization. Speedy Printing Centers from across the country will be participating in the effort.

JUST OPEN is the Meineke Discount Muffler franchise at 1660 S. Wayne Road, Westland. Joe and Paul Salhoub, father and son, opened the service center recently to provide "high-quality muffler and exhaust system service at a discount price." The two have turned their hobby of working on cars into careers.

Legislative forum to address businessmen's major concerns

Local business assistance, the single business tax and unemployment insurance will be just three of the topics to be discussed Saturday and Monday at a small business conference for businesspeople and legislators from western Wayne County.

The small business conference will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 10 at the Wayne County Intermediate School District office. The meeting is free to area business people and will include presentations from several state departments on efforts to improve the Michigan business climate.

Cosponsoring the conference will be state Representatives

Justine Barns (D-Westland), William Keith (D-Garden City), Lynn Owen (D-Maybee), Rick Sitz (D-Taylor), James Kosteva (D-Canton) and Richard Young (D-Dearborn Heights).

In addition to the state lawmakers, Sue Wolfram, economic development liaison for the Michigan Department of Commerce, will be present along with members of the state Department of Labor and Department of Treasury.

Other topics for the program will focus on financial assistance, local procurement assistance, labor training and programs for women business owners.

Beginning at 8 a.m., registrations will be accepted and coffee and donuts will be served until approximately noon. The school district offices are located at 33500 Van Born Road in Wayne.

On Monday, May 12, Kosteva will be joined by four other legislators who comprise the state House Special Committee on Small Business.

"We want to hear the views of business owners and the public on states rules and regulations and public sector competition with the private sector," Kosteva said.

"In addition, we'll examine what Michigan has to offer to help small businesses. In the last three years, major improvements have been made in the state business climate. However, we think more can be done and these hearings are intended to give us the necessary input to keep the ball rolling," he added.

The May 12 hearings will be from 9 to 11 a.m. in the Southfield Civic Center, Room 224, Parks and Recreation Building, 26000 Evergreen Road, and from 1 to 4 p.m. in the City-County Building Auditorium, 13th Floor, 2 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

"We need public input at these hearings," Kosteva said, "and anyone who wishes to testify need only appear at the time and location of their choice."

County agency to offer youths summer jobs

More than 2,500 jobs in public-service-type work will be made available this summer in Wayne County for youths ages 16 to 21.

The jobs, which pay at least $3.35 per hour, are being offered through the Summer Youth Programs administered by the Private Industry Corporation of Wayne County. Young adults living in Wayne County outside of Detroit and the downriver communities are eligible to apply.

"Young people will get a chance to earn up to $900 this summer and gain valuable work experience at the same time," said Wayne County Executive William Lucas. "They will make important contributions to community progress while establishing positive work habits and putting good citizenship to practice."

Barry T. Hawthorne, PIC executive director, said the work assignments will begin in early June and will be time for the convenience of high school and college students as well as out-of-school participants.

"We want to encourage wide-scale participation and then provide participants with meaningful career-oriented work experiences," he said. "Community service, safety awareness, and other positive work attitudes will be fostered in orientations and at worksites by our professional supervisory staff."

Workers in Westland will perform maintenance and other duties at the city community center, chamber of commerce and district court, Hawthorne said. Inkster workers will serve as public service and recreational aids to clean and monitor the parks, city streets and vacant lots, he added.

Interested people between the ages of 16 and 21 should call the local PIC district office in Wayne at 728-5627 or stop in at the Cooperative Extension Service, 5454 Venoy Road, Wayne.

Women's hearings planned

The Michigan Women's Commission will be conducting five hearings across the state to determine the status of older women regarding three major economic areas.

In the 1985/86 Michigan budget, the state legislature directed the Commission to study the availability and impact of pension systems, employment and training programs and health insurance to older women.

Locally, the meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the UAW Local 735 Hall, 48055 Michigan Ave., Canton.

Zoumbaris celebrates 97 years

With a clear mind and a gentle manner, Gust Zoumbaris celebrated his 97th birthday April 28 with some members of his large family.

An immigrant to the United States from Greece in the early 1900s, Zoumbaris raised five children (George, Frances, James, Vonge and Alex).

The Zoumbaris farm on Marquette Road was well known for picnics with dancing and good food. In 1926, he invited and received the company of Michigan Gov. Alexander Groesbeck, Detroit Mayor John Smith and Sen. Vandenburg and many local politicians to enjoy the picnic and hear the need for the extension of paved roads into western Wayne County, sheriff offices and the airport development.

As an interested parent, Zoumbaris was involved with Cady School while his children attended. Being the son of a Greek Orthodox priest, Zoumbaris helped establish the Greek Orthodox church, St. Constantine and Helen, which is relocating to Westland.

The Zoumbaris farm was sold to the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and is now the site of the Stottlemeyer School and Rotary Park.

NOTICE

I-94 MERRIMAN/MIDDLEBELT INTERCHANGES PUBLIC HEARING

The Michigan Department of Transportation is calling a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 12, 1986 in the Romulus City Council Chambers, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan.

The purpose of this hearing is to provide the opportunity for a public discussion of the treatments under consideration for the proposed improvements of the I-94 Interchanges at both Merriman and Middlebelt in Wayne County.

A description of the alternative, map, and other pertinent information including comments from interested Federal, State, and local government units, as well as local groups and officials, is located at the Romulus City Hall Lobby, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, and in the Bureau of Transportation Planning, 3rd floor, Transportation Building in Lansing, Michigan.

This hearing is held in accordance with Federal and State Public Involvement/Public Hearings procedures. Information concerning the Right-of-Way acquisition and the relocation assistance programs will be provided at the hearing. Testimony will be taken from interested citizens regarding the social, environmental, and economic impact of the proposed alternatives. Written statements and exhibits in place of, or in addition to oral statements made at the public hearing or requests for copies of this project's draft environmental impact statement and/or its supplement may be submitted to Philip J. Chisholm, Hearings and Mitigations Section, Michigan Dept. of Transportation, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing, MI 48909, at any time up to 15 (fifteen) days after the date of the public hearing.

To further assist you in understanding the proposals, representatives of the Michigan Department of Transportation will be present in the Romulus City Council Chambers, half an hour before the hearing to answer any questions you may have.

In addition information on this project or any Michigan Department of Transportation Planning program may be obtained by calling 517-373-9534.

TO ALL THE GUILTY
Your T.P. job on my machine
You no doubt thought was pretty keen.
The finished job was "a tad bit
lacky"
remarked one angry neighbor,
down on Ackley.
I'm pleased to know that from your scheme you derived some fun -
But I'm also aware you know that this war has yet to be won.
One lesson I've learned, and this is no fable,
Never leave your car keys on someone's back-porch table.
Eight rolls, nine rolls, ten rolls - for crying out loud!
My car deserves better quality stuff, like maybe Charmin or even White Cloud!!
